

LA, California, 89901

Dear Ms. Erica Soriano,

I am writing this letter to formally excuse Ms. Georgia Jones, who is my patient, from her work effective immediately until the end of June 2015. My patient was recently diagnosed with Pneumonia and I advised her to be admitted in the hospital for close monitoring and immediate treatment will be given to her.

Ms. Georgia Jones is expected to have a follow up check up before the date of her returning to your workplace. This will be my basis if she needs additional bed rest and medical leave or may fit to go back to work.

Kindly contact me at my clinic in Austin Hospital with the following telephone numbers: 900 8888/ 992 8890 if you have any concerns and queries about my recommendations to your employee. Thank you for giving consideration to this matter.

Regards,

James Hard M.D.

Doctor in Austin hospital

Physician Leaving Letter To Patients:

The Familiar Letter in Early Modern English Susan M. Fitzmaurice, 2002-01-01 This research monograph examines familiar letters in seventeenth and eighteenth century English to provide a pragmatic reading of the meanings that writers make and readers infer The first part of the book presents a method of analyzing historical texts The second part seeks to validate this method through case studies that illuminate how modern pragmatic theory may be applied to distant speech communities in both history and culture in order to reveal how speakers understand one another and how they exploit intended and unintended meanings for their own communicative ends The analysis demonstrates the application of pragmatic theory including speech act theory deixis politeness implicature and relevance theory to the study of historical literary and fictional letters from extended correspondences producing an historically informed richly situated account of the meanings and interpretations of those letters that a close reading affords This book will be of interest to scholars of the history of the English language historical pragmatics discourse analysis as well as to social and cultural historians and literary critics

The Medical Interview Mack Jr. Lipkin, J.G. Carroll, R.M. Frankel, Samuel M. Putnam, Aaron Lazare, A. Keller, T. Klein, P.K. Williams, 2012-12-06 Primary care medicine is the new frontier in medicine Every nation in the world has recognized the necessity to deliver personal and primary care to its people This includes first contact care care based in a positive and caring personal relationship care by a single healthcare provider for the majority of the patient's problems coordination of all care by the patient's personal provider advocacy for the patient by the provider the provision of preventive care and psychosocial care as well as care for episodes of acute and chronic illness These facets of care work most effectively when they are embedded in a coherent integrated approach The support for primary care derives from several significant trends First technologically based care costs have rocketed beyond reason or availability occurring in the face of exploding populations and diminishing real resources in many parts of the world even in the wealthier nations Simultaneously the primary care disciplines general internal medicine and pediatrics and family medicine have matured significantly
