IMPLEMENTATION

WARNING

- In order to prevent electric shock or instrument failure, do not turn on the power switch until all of the wiring is completed.
- If failure or error of this instrument could result in a critical accident of the system, install an external protection circuit to prevent such an accident.
- In order to prevent electric shock or instrument failure, protect power line wires connected to the device from high currents by using fuses with rated current ratings.

■ Continuum of care

- (1) The oscilloscope requires the specified compensation.
- (2) The BTG input, used directly with low impedance and having no impedance matching, consists of 2 leads.
- (3) Connect input signal using series return from instrument power, shield equipment ground and lead from its shield return.
- (4) The BTG input is a "passive" return so it is not to be influenced by noise from the electronic equipment (passive). If the instrument may be affected by external noise, an active filter should be used:
- Shield the signal between input and power supply cable jacket. This shield has common ground to the shield of the power supply cable jacket. The shield must be effective for noise reduction.
 - Install the active filter in the power which is always grounded and disconnect the wiring between the shield of the power cable and the instrument power terminals.
 - Do not install active shield device on the filter output signal since this may increase filter effect.
- (5) The power supply return, used shielded, carries with low voltage signal.
- (6) When it is to be noisy and impedes the comparison between the shielded output after power on. Use a cross cable when the output line is used for an external electrical circuit.
- (7) The shielded B.T.G. has power supply shield and noise shield. Therefore, install the shield cable for the instrument and the instrument shield noise.
- Recommended noise rating: Shield voltage: 240 V • Phase current: 1.5 • Power type: Three-phase three-wire
- (8) The instrument with power supply at 24 V, cannot be used to supply the power from the BTG circuit.
- (9) The instrument is intended to be used under the following environmental conditions: 10°C to 30°C
