GIS Methodologies for Developing Conservation Strategies Basil G. Savitsky, Thomas E. Lacher, Jr., 1998-04-28 Tropical habitats may contain more than a third of the world's plant and animal species Costa Rica alone is home to one of the highest levels of biodiversity per unit area in the world and stands at center stage in worldwide conservation efforts Within such regions the use of state of the art digital mapping technologies sophisticated techniques that are relatively inexpensive and accessible represents the future of conservation planning and policy These methods which employ satellites to obtain visual data on landscapes allow environmental scientists to monitor encroachment on indigenous territories trace park boundaries through unmarked wilderness and identify wildlife habitats in regions where humans have limited access Focusing on the rich biodiversity of Costa Rica the contributors demonstrate the use of geographic information systems GIS to enhance conservation efforts They give an overview of the spatial nature of conservation and management and the current status of digital mapping in Costa Rica a review of the basic principles behind digital mapping technologies a series of case studies using these technologies at a variety of scales and for a range of conservation and management activities and the results of the Costa Rican gap analysis project GIS Methodologies for Developing Conservation Strategies provides powerful tools for those involved in decision making about the natural environment particularly in developing nations like Costa Rica where such technologies have not yet been widely adopted For specialists in such areas as geography conservation biology and wildlife and natural resource management the combination of conceptual background and case examples make the book a crucial addition to the literature

Deforestation Around the World Paulo Moutinho, 2012-03-30 Deforestation and forest degradation represent a significant fraction of the annual worldwide human induced emission of greenhouse gases to the atmosphere the main source of biodiversity losses and the destruction of millions of people's homes Despite local regional causes its consequences are global This book provides a general view about deforestation dynamics around the world incorporating analyses of its causes impacts and actions to prevent it Its 17 Chapters organized in three sections refer to deforestation impacts on climate soil biodiversity and human population but also describe several initiatives to prevent it A special emphasis is given to different remote sensing and mapping techniques that could be used as a source for decision makers and society to promote forest conservation and control deforestation Environmental Anthropology Today Helen Kopnina, Eleanor Shoreman-Ouimet, 2011-08-05 This collection offers a wide ranging consideration of the field which illustrates how environmental anthropology can increase our understanding and help find solutions to environmental problems GLOBE Program Teacher's Guide ,1996 The GLOBE Program Teacher's Guide ,1996 Human Ecology Daniel G. Bates, Judith Tucker, 2010-03-29 This book arose from the need to develop accessible research based case study material which addresses contemporary issues and problems in the rapidly evolving field of human ecology Academic political and indeed public interest in the environmental sciences is on the rise This is no doubt spurred by media coverage of climate change and global warming and attendant natural disasters such as unusual drought and flood conditions toxic dust storms pollution of air and water and the like But there is also a growing intellectual awareness of the social causes of anthropogenic environmental impacts political vectors in determining conservation outcomes and the role of local representations of ecological knowledge in resource management and sustainable yield production This is reflected in the rapid increase of ecology courses being taught at leading universities in the fast growing developing countries much as was the case a decade or two ago in Europe and North America The research presented here is all taken from recent issues of Human Ecology An Interdisciplinary Journal Since the journal itself is a leading forum for contemporary research the articles we have selected represent a cross section of work which brings the perspectives of human ecology to bear on current problems being faced around the world The chapters are organized in such a way to facilitate the use of this volume either to teach a course or to introduce an informed reader to the field Bibliographic Guide to Education ,2002 lists publications cataloged by Teachers College Columbia University supplemented by The Research Libraries of The New York Public Library

Land-use Change in the Northwestern Uplands of Vietnam Manh-Cuong Pham, 2005 Reforesting Landscapes Harini Nagendra, Jane Southworth, 2009-12-02 The 21st century has seen the beginnings of a great restoration effort towards the world's forests accompanied by the emergence of an increasing literature on reforestation regeneration and regrowth of forest cover Yet to date there is no volume which synthesises current knowledge on the extent trends patterns and drivers of reforestation This edited volume draws together research from leading researchers to explore reforestation and forest regrowth across the world from multiple dimensions including ecosystem services protected areas social institutions economic transitions remediation of environmental problems conservation and land abandonment and at different scales Detailing the methods and analyses used from across a wide range of disciplines and incorporating research from North South and Central America Africa Asia and Europe this groundbreaking book provides a global overview of current trends explores their underlying causes and proposes future forest trajectories The first of its kind the book will provide an invaluable reference for researchers and students involved in interdisciplinary research and working on issues relevant to the biophysical geographic socioeconomic and institutional processes associated with reforestation
