Preserving The Public Trust Preserving The Public Trust:

Preserving Public Trust Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Assessing the System for Protecting Human Research Subjects, 2001-08-02 Amid increasing concern for patient safety and the shutdown of prominent research operations the need to improve protections for individuals who volunteer to participate in research has become critical Preserving Public Trust Accreditation and Human Research Participant Protection Programs considers the possible impact of creating an accreditation system to raise the performance of local protection mechanisms In the United States the system for human research participant protections has centered on the Institutional Review Board IRB however this report envisions a broader system with multiple functional elements In this context two draft sets of accreditation standards are reviewed authored by Public Responsibility in Medicine Research and the National Committee for Quality Assurance for their specific content in core areas as well as their objectivity and validity as measurement tools The recommendations in the report support the concept of accreditation as a quality improvement strategy suggesting that the model should be initially pursued through pilot testing of the proposed accreditation programs A Theory of Mediators' Ethics Omer

Shapira, 2016-03-14 Many aspects relating to the conduct of mediation are left to mediator choice but mediators often lack adequate guidance on how their discretion ought to be exercised In this book Omer Shapira identifies the ethical norms that govern mediators conduct Adopting a professional ethics perspective on the basis of role morality and applying it to a core definition of mediators role Shapira argues that all mediators are placed in ethical relationships with mediation parties the mediation profession the public and their employers or principals that produce ethical obligations The book goes on to explore the legitimate expectations of these groups and analyzes existing codes of conduct for mediators Shapira constructs a theory of mediators ethics that produces a proposed model code of conduct for mediators a detailed set of norms of mediators ethics that can be rationally justified and defended with regard to mediators at large Creative Common Law
