of whether the Constitution written in the 18th Century remains adequate to the national security challenges of our time The question of the scope of the president s constitutional authority if any to initiate war on behalf of the American people long the subject of heated debate in the corridors of power and the groves of academe has become an issue of surpassing importance for a nation confronted by existential threats in an Age of Terrorism This question should be thoroughly reviewed and debated by members of Congress and considered by all Americans before they are asked to go to war If the constitutional allocation of powers on matters of war and peace is outdated what changes should be made Is there a need to increase presidential power What role should Congress play in the war on terror Presidential Powers Harold J Krent,2005-02-01 Framed in Article II of the Constitution presidential powers are dictated today by judicial as well as historical precedent To understand the ways the president wields power as well as how this power is kept in check by other branches of government Harold J Krent presents three overlapping determinants of the president s role under the Constitution the need for presidential initiative in administering the law and providing foreign policy leadership the importance of maintaining congressional control over policymaking and the imperative to ensure that the president be accountable to the public Krent s examination is sweeping ranging from the president s ability to appoint and remove executive branch officials to the president s role in proposing and implementing treaties and the power to conduct war to the extent the president can refuse to turn over information in response to congressional and judicial requests Finally Krent addresses the history and purposes of presidential pardons By drawing on historic and contemporary presidential actions to illustrate his points Krent reminds us that the president is both an exalted leader with the regalia of power and an American who is and should be accountable to fellow citizens important considerations as we elect and assess our presidents
