Rievaulx Abbey Peter Fergusson, Glyn Coppack, Stuart A. Harrison, Michael Carter, 2016 Rievaulx Abbey Peter Fergusson, Stuart A. Harrison, Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art, 1999 This is the first book to study the architecture of Rievaulx viewing the buildings 800 year history and the varying periods of construction and deconstruction as much in terms of continuity as disruption In its elucidation of the architecture extensive reconstruction drawings and its examination of context iconography and social and economic factors this book offers a fuller and more scholarly account of the buildings of a great medieval institution than any currently available BOOK JACKET Sacred Heritage Roberta Gilchrist, 2020-01-02 Forges innovative connections between monastic archaeology and heritage studies revealing new perspectives on sacred heritage identity medieval healing magic and memory This title is available as Open Access

England Timothy Darvill, Jane Timby, Paul Stamper, 2002 Traveling around England is in many senses a journey back in time On all sides and sometimes even under the road or footpath itself there are fragments of the ancient past alongside the clutter of the modern world Medieval villages castles ancient churches and Roman villas are commonplace and take us back to the time of Christ And far older yet equally abundant are the barrows hillforts stone circles camps standing stones trackways and other relics of prehistoric times Now thanks to these three archaeologists each a specialist in one of the three periods covered by the Guide prehistoric Roman and medieval readers have the chance to not only explore but to understand in context these fascinating sites and ruins In addition to reporting on such well known sites as Stonehenge and Hadrian's Wall and cities such as London and York which themselves offer a wealth of archaeological remains the book also covers smaller lesser known sites throughout the country An introductory section provides background to the monuments and a reference section provides definitions further reading and information about museum collections Finally there are 200 photographs plans and maps that depict and describe these ancient remains in detail Cistercian Abbey in Krzeszów Andrzej Koziel, Sławomir Stasiak, Rajmund Pietkiewicz, 2025-06-16 Was the Cistercian abbey in Krzesz w really a European center of art and theological thought This study in eight chapters tries to answer this question The first chapter shows how deep the foundations of the Krzesz w Abbey go The next three chapters are devoted to various works initiatives and architecture of the Baroque era First the unique painting of Our Lady of Mercy in the Mater Misericordiae type which was created in 1624 was presented Then the sculptural foundations of Abbot Geyer in the area of the Krzesz w abbey and in its latifundia were discussed Finally the architecture of the baroque abbey church unique on a European scale was presented Grace of the Blessed Virgin Mary This proves what an extraordinary center Krzesz w was in terms of the art created there In the next two chapters the reader finds the answer to the question Was Krzesz w also a significant theological center in Europe at that time First in terms of Catholic dogmatic and then in terms of biblical linguistics The study ends with two chapters the first of which focuses on the sacralization of the landscape by introducing modern forms of imitation of the Holy

Land and the cult of saints The second one presents the baroque iconography of the Cistercian monastery in Krzesz w from the end of the 17th century to the beginning of the 20th century which shows the changes in its social function over the centuries

Excavations at Hulton Abbey, Staffordshire 1987-1994 William D. Klemperer, 2017-12-02 Hulton Abbey was a minor Cistercian monastery in north Staffordshire England founded in 1219 and finally dissolved in 1538 This is the final report on the archaeological excavations undertaken there between 1987 and 1994 In particular the chapter house was uncovered and re assessed and the eastern part of the church and north aisle were completely excavated together with the eastern half of the nave The excavations are described by area and chronological phase with detailed specialist reports including architectural stonework and decorated floor tiles An extensive programme of sampling and analysis of pollen remains from burials was also completed The remains of 91 individuals mainly men but also women and children are reported on in detail with sections on abnormalities and pathology as well as medieval burial goods such as a wax chalice and wooden wands Comparisons with other published monastic sites in the region help to place Hulton into a wider context An important element of the project was education and community involvement and today the site lies in a small urban park in Stoke on Trent

Heritage and Tourism Russell Staiff, Robyn Bushell, Steve Watson, 2013-06-26 The complex relationship between heritage places and people in the broadest sense can be considered dialogic a communicative act that has implications for both sides of the conversation This is the starting point for Heritage and Tourism However the dialogue between visitors and heritage sites is complex Visitors have for many decades become synonymous with tourists and the tourism industry and so the dialogic relationship between heritage place and tourists has produced a powerful critique of this often contested relationship Further at the heart of the dialogic relationship between heritage places and people is the individual experience of heritage where generalities give way to particularities of geography place and culture where anxieties about the past and the future mark heritage places as sites of contestation sites of silences sites rendered political and ideological sites powerfully intertwined with representation sites of the imaginary and the imagined Under the aegis of the term dialogues the heritage tourism interaction is reconsidered in ways that encourage reflection about the various communicative acts between heritage places and their visitors and the ways these are currently theorized so as to either step beyond where possible the ontological distinctions between heritage places and tourists or to re imagine the dialogue or both Heritage and Tourism is thus an important contribution to understanding the complex relationship between heritage and tourism

Coventry: Medieval Art, Architecture and Archaeology in the City and its Vicinity Linda Monckton, 2017-07-05 The British Archaeological Association's 2007 conference celebrated the material culture of medieval Coventry the fourth wealthiest English city of the later middle ages The nineteen papers collected in this volume set out to remedy the relative neglect in modern scholarship of the city's art architecture and archaeology as well as to encompass recent research on monuments in the vicinity The scene is set by two papers on archaeological excavations in the historic city centre especially since the 1970s and a paper investigating the relationships between Coventry's building boom and economic conditions in the city in the later middle ages Three papers on the Cathedral Priory of St Mary bring together new insights into the Romanesque cathedral church the monastic buildings and the post Dissolution history of the precinct derived mainly from the results of the Phoenix Initiative excavations 1999-2003 Three more papers provide new architectural histories of the spectacular former parish church of St Michael the fine Guildhall of St Mary and the remarkable surviving west range of the Coventry Charterhouse The high quality monumental art of the later medieval city is represented by papers on wall painting featuring the recently conserved Doom in Holy Trinity church on the little known Crucifixion mural at the Charterhouse and on a reassessment of the working practices of the famous master glazier John Thornton Two papers on a guild seal and on the glazing at Stanford on Avon parish church consider the evidence for Coventry as a regional workshop centre for high quality metalwork and glass painting Beyond the city three papers deal with the development of Combe Abbey from Cistercian monastery to country house with the Beauchamp family's hermitage at Guy's Cliffe and with a newly identified stonemasons workshop in the barn at Kenilworth Abbey Two further papers concern the architectural patronage of the earls and dukes of Lancaster in the 14th century at Kenilworth Castle and in the Newarke at Leicester Castle Yorkshire

Monasteries Bernard Jennings, 1999 Rievaulx Abbey and Its Social Context, 1132-1300 Emilia Jamrozik, 2005 Rievaulx abbey was one of the most prominent houses of white monks Cistercians in England and became in the course of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries an important feature of the ecclesiastical and social landscape of Yorkshire The present work is the first in depth study devoted to Rievaulx's social history The abbey's once extensive archives were largely destroyed after the Dissolution but the surviving late twelfth century cartulary provides a fascinating insight into the process of creating institutional memory preserving and shaping information about various neighbours of the abbey and creating a map of social networks that developed around Rievaulx The complex picture of building and sustaining connections between the abbey and its lay patrons benefactors and neighbours forms a core to this book This study also examines how Rievaulxco existed with other religious institutions in the area and particularly the practical dimension of friendships between abbots declarations of mutual support between monastic communities and how these were reconciled with a fierce competition for land and donations Contacts between Rievaulx abbey and the nearby archbishops of York and bishops of Durham were intense and these contacts demonstrate how important these prelates were as potential supporters and how broader ecclesiastical issues influenced their relationships with Rievaulx Whilst exploring the case of one particular monastery this book is an important contribution to the current debate on the shaping of Cistercian practice and particularly the mechanisms for the interaction between laity and monastic communities during the High Middle Ages
