

I.B. TAURIS

A young child with dark hair and closed eyes is pressed against a glass surface, possibly a car window. A hand is visible on the left side of the frame, pressed against the glass. The child's face is wet, and there are water droplets on the glass. The background is dark and blurry.

Bravo, 2013-03-20 Reality Effects brings together the reflections of leading film scholars and critics from Latin America the UK and the United States on the re emergence of the real as a prime concern in contemporary Argentine and Brazilian film and as a main reason for the acclaim both cinematographies have won among international audiences in recent years

The Projected Nation Matt Losada, 2018-08-01

Investigates how Argentine cinema has represented rural spaces and urban margins from the 1910s to the present The Projected Nation examines the representation of rural spaces and urban margins in Argentine cinema from the 1910s to the present The literary and visual culture of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries formulated a spatial imaginary often articulated as an opposition between civilization and barbarism or its inversion into which the cinema intervened As the twentieth century progressed the new medium integrated these ideas with its own images in various ways At times cinema limited itself to reproducing inherited representations that reassure the viewer that all is well in the nation while at others it powerfully reformulated them by filming spaces and peoples previously excluded from the national culture and left behind in the nation s modernizing process Matt Losada accounts for historical events technological factors and the politics of film form and viewing in assessing a selection of works ranging from mass marketed cinema to the political avant garde and from the canonical to the nearly unknown This is an ambitious work that views the spatial imaginary in a full century of film development as informed by national culture and politics Marvin D Lugo coeditor of The Routledge Companion to Latin American Cinema

Journeys in Argentine and Brazilian Cinema Natalia Pinazza, 2014-10-16 Many South American films that use the popular road movie format to examine regional culture and attitudes especially in Argentina and Brazil Pinazza performs a careful cultural analysis of the films and investigates how road movies deal with narratives on nationhood whilst simultaneously inserting themselves in a transnational dialogue

Other Worlds G. Aguilar, 2008-12-16 Respected film critic Gonzalo Aguilar offers a lucid and sophisticated analysis of Argentine films of the last decade This is the most complete and up to date work in English to examine the new Argentine cinema phenomenon Aguilar looks at highly relevant films including those by Lucrecia Martel and Sergio Rejtman
