Emphasis is placed on the application of modern scientific technology to assure the efficacy and safety of functional foods and nutraceutical supplements. Fermentation Biotechnology for Functional Foods Kalidas Shetty, Lena Gálvez Ranilla, 2025-10-31 Fermentation based processing advanced with global food systems as humanity started to organize the domestication of agriculture from plant and animal sources. These advances emerged across regions of the world from river valley civilizations in Asia Mesopotamia India and China and Africa Egypt to Meso American civilizations. As food crops and animal foods emerged from domestication to advancements in post harvest processing stages growth of invisible microbial systems led to modified foods that aligned with local palates of the communities. This in several cases became part of food systems as it added a mode of preservation and improved the food quality that was preferred by each community. This is how the early genesis of fermented foods from grains fruits and vegetables to animal meats and milk products became an integral part of early civilizations over 4000 years ago and has now carried over and further developed across many countries in every region of the world. The foundations of these food fermentations are now an integral part of modern food advances as preferred food substrates and the microbial interactions that drive the metabolic processes in defined food matrixes are being scientifically advanced. This book focuses on bringing together diverse emergences and advancements of fermented foods across different regions of the world and how the metabolic processes associated with fermentation in several cases add health relevant functional qualities across different food matrixes. This book contains 26 chapters from the Americas Africa Europe and Asia bringing together the fermentation processes of diverse food substrates and their microbial processing and in several cases providing health targeted functional benefits Key Features Discusses the rationale and basis of fermented food systems from across 26 diverse regions of the world with examples from the Americas Asia Europe and Africa Presents historical plant and animal food substrates and the metabolic processes of their fermentation across traditions of a range of countries Covers traditional food fermentations across diverse food substrates that have potentially health relevant functional benefits Reflects and presents the role of historical cultural and traditional food concepts of a diverse range of countries with many novel examples and how they have influenced health relevant functional benefits Discusses the relevance of metabolic concepts of fermented and functional foods in advancing healthy food concepts This book is important for food scientists nutritionists and the health care sector but beyond this it is also relevant for a wider global audience interested in a holistic health approach from food systems where examples of fermentation experience can inform new natural processing strategies to improve food quality and health

Supplements and Herbal Products Treating the Diseases of the 21st Century Moving from Traditional to Scientific Research

Frontiers in Nutrition is happy to launch Volume II of this successful Research Topic Nutraceuticals encompassing foods dietary supplements and herbal products have emerged as pivotal elements in the prevention and treatment of diseases in the 21st century These products offer significant advantages over conventional medicine such as minimizing side effects and serving as natural dietary supplements The nutraceutical industry has witnessed rapid growth particularly in the sectors of natural herbal products and dietary supplements which are regulated by the Food and Drug Administration FDA to ensure safety Despite their potential the scientific evidence supporting the efficacy of these products varies widely This disparity underscores the need for rigorous scientific investigation to validate their health benefits and integrate them effectively into modern medical treatment paradigms The cross cultural use of plants in traditional medicine highlights the importance of ethnobotanical and ethnomedical studies in informing drug development and identifying bioactive compounds This research topic aims to bridge the gap between traditional knowledge and scientific research in the field of nutraceuticals By exploring the medical and health benefits of foods dietary supplements and herbal products the research seeks to provide robust scientific evidence to support their use in treating and preventing diseases Specific objectives include investigating the effects of food diversity on health understanding the transition from traditional to scientific nutraceutical research and evaluating the role of natural products in disease treatment The research will also address the processing and functionality of these products their role in traditional medicine and the impact of digital marketing on their supply and demand To gather further insights into the integration of nutraceuticals into modern healthcare we welcome articles addressing but not limited to the following themes Food diversity and its effect on consumption and health Nutraceutical research from traditional to the scientific revolution Dietary supplements of natural origin in the treatment of disease conditions Processing and functionality of natural products Traditional natural products and their role in the treatment of diseases When food becomes medicine in the treatment of disease conditions Medicinal plants diversity and functionality Digital marketing of traditional natural products meeting the supply and demand

The Gut-Liver Axis: the Main Role of Microbiome in Liver Diseases
Giovanni Tarantino, Mauro Cataldi , Tiziana Di Renzo, 2025-03-25

The Gut Liver Axis describes a bidirectional interaction between the gut comprehending its microbiome and the liver in which gut derived molecules and or by products are transported to the hepatocytes through the portal vein and the liver responds to the gut through the biliary system Intestinal ecological dysbiosis refers to alterations in the intestinal flora characterized by changes in the intestinal bacterial taxa and bacterial overgrowth itself may lead to impaired small intestinal motility The integrity of this intestinal mucosal barrier and the physiological composition of the intestinal microbiome is essential for maintaining homeostasis of the gut liver axis and its alterations may impact on several liver diseases such as NAFLD liver cirrhosis and hepatocarcinoma Last but not the least intestinal dysbiosis has a key role in modulating the hepatotoxicity DILI of clinically relevant drugs through various mechanisms that include changes in absorption metabolism and effects on drug drug interactions With this research topic we aim to gather new pieces of evidence on the potential mechanisms explaining the connection between gut flora dysbiosis and liver damage 1 The impairment of hepatocyte survival by toxic compounds generated by intestinal bacteria 2 The triggering of immune inflammatory processes by toxic compounds generated by dysbiotic bacteria in the gut and transported to the liver 3 The genotoxicity on liver cells of gut bacterial mediators 4 The epigenetic modifications in the hepatocytes induced by intestinal bacteria 5 The impairment of the enterohepatic circulation of bile acids 6 The connection between microbiota induced NAFLD NASH and the risk of DILI 7 The conversion of orally given drugs into toxic metabolites through bacterial metabolism taking place in the gut lumen 8 The disruption of the integrity of the epithelial intestinal barrier with the consequent bacterial translocation through a direct action of drugs on the intestinal mucosa 9 The modulation by the gut microbiota of the rewarding potential of hepatotoxic drugs of abuse leading to an increase in craving for these substances and ultimately in their intake and liver toxicity 10 The hypothesis that strategies aiming to modify the composition of gut microbiota with probiotics prebiotics symbiotics could ameliorate or prevent liver diseases
