LAW, PUBLIC SAFETY, CORRECTIONS & SECURITY: PROTECTING PEOPLE AND UPHOLDING JUSTICE

Every day, law enforcement officers, firefighters, security guards, and legal professionals work to protect communities and uphold justice. The Law, Public Safety, Corrections & Security (LPCS) career cluster aims to train students to become public safety professionals, and responding to emergencies. Whether it's protecting lives and investigating crimes, defending legal rights, these professionals play critical roles in ensuring that individuals and communities are safe and secure.

What Does the LPCS Cluster Include?

This career cluster includes various professions, such as:

- Law enforcement - Police officers, detectives, and legal assistants who represent justice and ensure law is followed.
- Legal services - Lawyers, paralegals, and legal assistants who represent justice and ensure law is followed.
- Emergency and fire management services - Firefighters, emergency medical technicians (EMTs), and disaster response teams.
- Security and protective services - Security guards, commercial officers, and transportation security personnel who ensure safety in business and public spaces.

Real-World Examples

Imagine a police officer responding to a burglary call, investigating the crime, and ensuring evidence is collected. Or a firefighter responding to a fire, extinguishing the flames, and ensuring the safety of the community. These are just a few examples of the many ways these professionals serve their communities.

Education and Skills

Students in the LPCS cluster require a strong sense of responsibility, courage, and excellent communication skills. High school students can prepare by taking courses in:

- Criminal justice and public safety
- Government and civics
- Health and physical education
- English and writing

Additional resources and programs include:

- Shadowing professionals and law enforcement training programs
- Certifications for EMTs, firefighters, and security personnel
- Internships for law enforcement, legal professionals, and fire departments
- Additional training for legal professionals, such as law school for attorneys

Key skills include critical thinking, problem-solving, physical fitness, and the ability to stay calm under pressure.

Career Pathways in LPCS

This cluster includes four career pathways:

1. Law Enforcement - Includes commercial officers, protection officers, and police officers who ensure individuals in society are in a secure environment.
2. Emergency and Fire Management Services - Commercial police officers, detectives, and federal agents who ensure law is followed in emergencies and disasters.
3. Legal Services - Includes attorneys, paralegals, and court reporters who work within the legal system to ensure justice is served.
4. Security and Protective Services - Includes security guards, transportation security officers, and private security personnel who protect people and property.

LAW, PUBLIC SAFETY, CORRECTIONS & SECURITY: PROTECTING PEOPLE AND UPHOLDING JUSTICE

The LPCS career cluster works in high-stress environments, often outdoors and the need to build public trust and respect. Law enforcement and legal professionals must have strong communication skills, both verbal and written. They must also have a strong understanding of the law and the rights of all individuals.

There is a growing focus on diversity and community policing, which emphasizes building relationships between law enforcement and the communities they serve. Legal professionals are working to ensure justice for all, and the rights of all individuals.

Real-World Examples
