Disability & the Politics of Education Susan Lynn Gabel,Scot Danforth,2008 Disability and the Politics of Education An International Reader is a rich resource that deals comprehensively with the many aspects of the complex topic of disability studies in education For nearly two decades global attention has been given to education as a human right through global initiatives such as Education for All EFA and the Salamanca Statement Yet according to UNESCO reaching the goals of EFA remains one of the most daunting challenges facing the global community Today millions of the world s disabled children cannot obtain a basic childhood education particularly in countries with limited resources Even in the wealthiest countries many disabled children and youth are educationally segregated from the nondisabled particularly if they are labeled with significant cognitive impairment International agencies such as the United Nations and the World Bank have generated funds for educational development but unfortunately these funds are administered with the assumption that west is best thereby urging developing countries to mimic educational policies in the United States and the United Kingdom in order to prove their aid worthiness This McDonaldization of education reproduces the labeling resource allocation and social dynamics long criticized in disability studies The authors in this volume explore these subjects and other complexities of disability and the politics of education In doing so they demonstrate the importance and usefulness of international perspectives and comparative approaches Voices and Visions from Ethnoculturally Diverse Young People with Disabilities Amanda Ajodhia-Andrew, 2015-12-22 Many Canadian children from minority status groups experience long term academic complexities influencing their sense of school belonging and engagement Research demonstrates children with intersecting differences of race ethnicity language and disability and those in their middle years 10 13 years old undergo heightened academic challenges Yet what are children with disabilities personal schooling experiences and how may these insights support inclusive learning teaching and sense of belonging Within Toronto one of the most diverse Canadian cities this book explores the stories and experiences of six middle years children with intersecting differences of race ethnicity language and disabilities particularly autism Through narrative and critical discourse analysis research methods the children s views were accessed via a mosaic multi method data collection approach including their own photography drawings journal writings imaginative story games and interview texts The children s narratives illustrate their understandings of differences learning and inclusion This book presents innovative insights highlighting the voices of children with disabilities as they navigate through complex issues of diversity and share how these impact their understandings and experiences of school inclusion and exclusion The author advocates inviting the voices of children with intersecting differences into educational conversations and research processes as they may adeptly advance areas of inclusion and diversity
