Second Validation Compendium Report Second Validation Compendium Report:

Theories of Performance Colin Talbot, 2010-09-30 How well do governments do in converting the resources they take from us like taxes into services that improve the well being of individuals groups and society as a whole In other words how well do they perform This question has become increasingly prominent in public debates over the past couple of decades especially in the developed world but also in developing countries As the state has grown during the second half of the 20th century so pressures to justify its role in producing public services have also increased Governments across the world have implemented all sorts of policies aimed at improving performance But how much do we know about what actually improves performance of public organisations and services On what theories explicit or more often implicit are these policies based The answer is too much and too little There are dozens of theories models assumptions and prescriptions about what works in improving performance But there s been very little attempt to join up theories about performance and make some sense of the evidence we have within a coherent theoretical framework This ground breaking book sets out to begin to fill this gap by creatively synthesising the various fragments and insights about performance into a framework for systematically exploring and understanding how public sector performance is shaped It focuses on three key aspects the external performance regime that drives performance of public agencies the multiple dimensions that drive performance from within and the competing public values that frame both of these and shape what public expects from public services

Using the Contract to Maximise the Likelihood of Successful Project Outcomes Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-06-07 This report is one of a series of studies by the NAO which examine key factors involved in improving project performance in defence equipment procurement with the aim of establishing best practice in relation to a theoretical gold standard developed by assessing and comparing results of overseas and commercial operations Following on from the first report in the series HCP 30 session 2005 06 ISBN 0102932611 which identified the contract as a key component of project control this report sets out recommendations on how the Ministry of Defence and its industry partners can best use the contract to maximise the likelihood of successful project outcomes It does not examine methods competitive or otherwise the MoD might pursue to select a potential supplier as the effective use of competition will be the subject of a future report More information on the evidence underlying the recommendations in this report and the gold standard criteria developed can be found on the website www.naodefencevmf.org

Performance Budgeting M. Robinson, 2007-08-30 This book examines the theory and practice of performance budgeting which aims make government more effective by linking the funding of government agencies to the results they deliver Combining thematic studies and case studies it clearly presents the diverse range of contemporary performance budgeting models and examines their effectiveness

Working with Non-governmental and Other Civil Society Organisations to Promote Development Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-07-06 The term Civil Society covers aspects of society independent of the state and the private sector Civil Society Organisations CSOs are bodies organised around shared interests and values and include NGOs trade unions faith groups and business associations Since 1997 the Department for International Development DFID has increasingly worked with CSOs to help to reduce world poverty This report looks at DFID's view of the role of CSOs in international development how it engages with CSOs and the achievements of CSOs in reducing poverty It is based on visits to 4 countries 19 projects a file review of 40 projects and Partnership Programme Agreements and the response of 90 CSOs

The New Public Leadership Challenge S.

Brookes, K. Grint, 2010-05-13 Drawn from the results of five seminars this unique book looks at the four areas of public sector reform essential features for public leaders public leadership in action and the outline of a public leadership approach for the future It seeks to give public leadership a firm foothold within the study of leadership in general

Update on PFI Debt Refinancing and the PFI Equity Market Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-04-21 Findings from this NAO report include that the government has secured gains of 137 million from Private Finance Initiative PFI debt refinancings under new arrangements introduced by the Treasury in 2002 including 102 million from four large refinancings one of the London Underground contracts and three hospital projects Norfolk and Norwich Darent Valley and Bromley The NAO found that the new sharing arrangements through a voluntary Code appear to be generally working well but there have been exceptions for example in three road projects the public sector missed out on at least 17 million because gains were not shared in accordance with the voluntary code The report also describes the emergence of the PFI secondary market which is enabling equity investors in PFI projects to sell their shares on to new investors

The Management of Staff Sickness Absence in the National Probation Service

Great Britain: National Audit Office, Sir John Bourn, 2006-04-26 This NAO report examines sick leave in the National Probation Service which was running at 12.3 days per person in the 2004/05 period at a cost of 31.6 million A number of recommendations have been set out as follows That the National Probation Directorate should agree with the Chief Probation Officer a consistent minimum standard for collecting and reporting sickness absence data in their areas This in turn could be used to produce comparative analyses and offer a basis to diagnose the causes of sickness absence An upgrade in some areas of their information technology systems should occur so that better management information can be compiled All probation areas should implement the mandatory elements of the national policy on sickness absence All Chief Officers should review their action plans for reducing sickness absence Sickness absence should be managed effectively but sympathetically by including return to work interviews along with a means of distinguishing between avoidable and unavoidable sickness absences and addressing the culture of absenteeism Long term sickness absence should be reviewed as a matter of urgency Policies relating to work life balance should be implemented nationally

Fines

Collection Great Britain: National Audit Office, Audit Commission, 2006-05-25 Fines are the most common sentence imposed by Magistrates courts in England and Wales covering a range of crimes including motoring offences drug offences criminal damage and TV licence evasion In the year 2004/05 penalties totalling 352 million were imposed with 75 million cancelled and 222 million collected Following on from an earlier report HCP 672 session 2001 02 ISBN 0102914508 published in 2002 the NAO has examined whether the changes made in practices and procedures have resulted in improvements to the enforcement and collections of fines It is estimated that a 25 per cent reduction in the number of legally cancelled fines would result in potential savings of 6.9 million per year and prompter payment of fines would yield further annual savings of almost one million pounds Although a series of measures have been introduced by the Department for Constitutional Affairs to improve the system over two thirds of the cases examined required enforcement action before the offender made any payments A number of recommendations for further improvements are made including in relation to developing performance indicators prompter collection of fines including making payment facilities including cash available at each court focusing staff resource allocation on the early stages of enforcement and addressing IT problems caused by the delay of the Libra system

VAT on E-commerce Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-05-26 The value of internet sales known as e commerce in the UK has more than trebled between 2002 and 2004 to 18.1 billion with a further surge around Christmas 2005 and this level is expected to rise to nearly 60 billion a year by 2010 It is estimated that in 2005 06 HM Revenue and Customs collected over 1 billion in VAT on e commerce goods and services HM Revenue and Customs does not separately identify the exact amount of VAT collected from e commerce because businesses are required to calculate and pay over VAT for their entire taxable activities which include both traditional forms of business and e commerce In light of these developments this NAO report examines the implications of the growth in e commerce for VAT collection and the approach of HM Revenue and Customs to VAT collection The report finds that HM Revenue and Customs has been alert to emerging areas of risk such as the failure of e commerce businesses to register for VAT and the non payment or underpayment of import VAT on goods ordered over the internet from outside the EU The report supports the assessment by HM Revenue and Customs that the overall risk to VAT revenue from on line shopping is currently low but as activity increases in this fast changing environment it will be important that the Department builds on its work to keep abreast of possible changes in the patterns and levels of risk to VAT
