Declaration of the Rights of the Negro Peoples of the World and Africa for the Africans We are Not One People Michael J. Lee, R. Jarrod Atchison, 2022 E pluribus unum was suggested for the national seal in 1776 but national oneness has been haunted by its opposite ever since We Are Not One People demonstrates how the persistence of separatist movements in American history reveals as much about the nation's politics as it does the would be separatists Each chapter explores how great swaths of Americans of every ideological stripe in good times and bad in and beyond the South have disputed the nation's oneness and stressed its divisibility Trumpeted in American myths mottos movies and songs separatism is omnipresent in American political culture Separatist rhetoric has shaped Americans experience of what it means to be an American and we can learn much about the durable appeal and enduring fragility of the United States from those who tried to leave it As one Vermont separatist quips leaving is as American as apple pie We Are Not One People is a bold pathbreaking and far reaching account of disunionists from 1776 to the present who wanted as phrased in the Declaration of Independence to dissolve the political bands connecting them to other Americans

The Black Box Henry Louis Gates, Jr., 2025-03-18 A New York Times Notable Book Henry Louis Gates is a national treasure Here he returns with an intellectual and at times deeply personal meditation on the hard fought evolution and the very meaning of African American identity calling upon our country to transcend its manufactured divisions Isabel Wilkerson author of The Warmth of Other Suns and Caste This is a literary history of Black America but it is also an argument that African American history is inextricable from the history of African American literature The New York Times A magnificent foundational reckoning with how Black Americans have used the written word to define and redefine themselves in resistance to the lies of racism and often in heated disagreement with one another over the course of the country's history Distilled over many years from Henry Louis Gates Jr's legendary Harvard introductory course in African American studies The Black Box Writing the Race is the story of Black self definition in America through the prism of the writers who have led the way From Phillis Wheatley and Frederick Douglass W E B Du Bois and Booker T Washington to Zora Neale Hurston and Richard Wright James Baldwin and Toni Morrison these writers used words to create a livable world a home for Black people destined to live out their lives in a bitterly racist society It is a book grounded in the beautiful irony that a group formed legally and conceptually by its oppressors to justify brutal subhuman bondage transformed itself through the word into a community joined in overcoming one of history's most pernicious lies Out of that contested ground has flowered a resilient creative powerful diverse culture of people who have often disagreed markedly about what it means to be Black and about how best to use the past to create a more just and equitable future This is the epic story of how through essays and speeches novels plays and poems a long line of creative thinkers has unveiled the contours of and resisted confinement in the black box inside which this nation within a nation has been assigned willy nilly from the nation's founding through to today. This is a book that records the compelling saga of the creation of a people.

Black, White, and Green Alison Hope Alkon, 2012-11-01 Farmers markets are much more than places to buy produce. According to advocates for sustainable food systems, they are also places to vote with your fork for environmental protection, vibrant communities, and strong local economies. Farmers markets have become essential to the movement for food system reform and are a shining example of a growing green economy where consumers can shop their way to social change. Black, White, and Green brings new energy to this topic by exploring dimensions of race and class as they relate to farmers markets and the green economy. With a focus on two Bay Area markets, one in the primarily white neighborhood of North Berkeley and the other in largely black West Oakland, Alison Hope Alkon investigates the possibilities for social and environmental change embodied by farmers markets and the green economy. Drawing on ethnographic and historical sources, Alkon describes the meanings that farmers market managers, vendors, and consumers attribute to the buying and selling of local organic food and the ways that those meanings are raced and classed. She mobilizes this research to understand how the green economy fosters visions of social change that are compatible with economic growth while marginalizing those that are not. Black, White, and Green is one of the first books to carefully theorize the green economy to examine the racial dynamics of food politics and to approach issues of food access from an environmental justice perspective. In a practical sense, Alkon offers an empathetic critique of a newly popular strategy for social change, highlighting both its strengths and limitations.

African American Officers in Liberia Brian G. Shellum, 2018-08-01 African American Officers in Liberia tells the story of seventeen African American officers who trained, reorganized, and commanded the Liberian Frontier Force from 1910 to 1942. In this West African country, founded by freed black American slaves, African American officers performed their duties as instruments of imperialism for a country that was at best ambivalent about having them serve under arms at home and abroad. The United States extended its newfound imperial reach and policy of Dollar Diplomacy to Liberia, a country it considered a U.S.

protectorate Brian G Shellum explores U S foreign policy toward Liberia and the African American diaspora while detailing the African American military experience in the first half of the twentieth century Shellum brings to life the story of the African American officers who carried out a dangerous mission in Liberia for an American government that did not treat them as equal citizens in their homeland and he provides recognition for their critical role in preserving the independence of Liberia
