Griffith,2020-09-01 The animals that one culture likes are often hated in the next and it seems that the animals themselves know it well Basically one culture s animal partner is often another culture s nightmare from hell Naturally I wonder how relations between people and animals got to be so different around the world How did it happen that some cultures treat bats snakes wolves or ravens as embodiments of evil while other people treat the same animals with affection or even reverence Our wars with the animals go way back Beyond the light cast by our prehistoric campfires the eyes glowing in the night seemed to represent a great hostile force As we began to cultivate crops and husband a few favoured animals we generally regarded other creatures as threats to our chosen few Using the logic of war we sought to maximize the populations of certain creatures and the destruction of others In the past that war effort was our great crusade for the advancement of civilization as we knew it The war had a frontier a front line and an ongoing battle on the home front Expanding outward from our various cradles of civilization we progressively tamed the forests and grasslands converting them to monocrop plantations or pastures Then we had to defend our monocrops from encroaching weeds insects and wild animals In this immediately engaging story and fact filled page turner of a book Brian Griffith looks at the range of ways we relate to animals and the stories we tell about them He asks how we choose whether buddyhood fearful respect businesslike predation or genocidal war is the most appropriate response to each species we meet He watches how our treatment of inferior beings affects our treatment of inferior people and traces some of the chain reactions we unleash when we try to weed out species we don't like Without much hope of making animals fit my personal preferences he writes I wonder how good our relations can get

A Theory of Environmental Leadership Mark Manolopoulos, 2021-03-15 In A Theory of Environmental Leadership Mark Manolopoulos draws on his original model of leading outlined in his cutting edge book Following Reason to derive and develop the first properly systematic model of eco leadership Suppose humanity's relation with the Earth may be described in terms of leadership stages or modalities once upon a time the Earth led or ruled humanity and now we humans rule or lead the Earth When the Earth led the Earth flourished now that humankind leads the Earth flounders ecological crises multiply and intensify However there might be a third stage or modality of leadership humanity leading for the Earth leading in a way that allows the world including humans to re flourish What would be the nature of this truly environmental form of leadership A Theory of Environmental Leadership identifies and critically analyzes the two basic and incompatible positions associated with the way we construe and interact with the non human anthropocentrism human supremacism and ecocentrism ecological egalitarianism By rigorously analyzing and leveraging this polarity this book outlines an innovative theory of eco leadership together with some of its confronting but necessary measures Expansive and incredibly timely A Theory of Environmental Leadership is ideal for a range of audiences from scholars and students of environmental leadership studies to activists and policymakers The book's remarkable clarity and engaging character also makes it suitable for the general public

Wild Life Irus Braverman, 2015-04-22 Wild Life documents a nuanced understanding of the wild versus captive divide in species conservation It also documents the emerging understanding that all forms of wild nature both in situ on site and ex situ in captivity may need to be managed in perpetuity Providing a unique window into the high stakes world of nature conservation Irus Braverman describes the heroic efforts by conservationists to save wild life Yet in the shadows of such dedication and persistence in saving the life of species Wild Life also finds sacrifice and death Such life and death stories outline the modern struggle to define what conservation should look like at a time when the long established definitions of nature have collapsed Wild Life begins with the plight of a tiny endangered snail and ends with the rehabilitation of an entire island Interwoven between its pages are stories about golden lion tamarins in Brazil black footed ferrets in the American Plains Sumatran rhinos in Indonesia Tasmanian devils in Australia and many more creatures both human and nonhuman Braverman draws on interviews with more than one hundred and twenty conservation biologists zoologists zoo professionals government officials and wildlife managers to explore the various perspectives on in situ and ex situ conservation and the blurring of the lines between them
