Rewriting The Basics Literacy Learning In Childrens Cultures Language And Literacy:

ReWRITING the Basics Anne Haas Dyson, 2013 What are the real basics of writing how should they be taught and what do they look like in children's worlds In her new book Anne Haas Dyson shows how highly scripted writing curricula and regimented class routines work against young children's natural social learning processes Readers will have a front row seat in Mrs Bee's kindergarten and Mrs Kay's 1st grade class where these dedicated teachers taught writing basics in schools serving predominately low income children of color The children it turns out had their own expectations for one another's actions during writing time Driven by desires for companionship and meaning they used available linguistic and multimodal resources to construct their shared lives In so doing they stretch enrich and ultimately transform our own understandings of the basics ReWRITING the Basics goes beyond critiquing traditional writing basics to place them in the linguistic diversity and multimodal texts of children's everyday worlds This engaging work Illustrates how scripted uniform curricula can reduce the resources of so called at risk children Provides insight into how children may situate writing within the relational ethics and social structures of childhood cultures Offers guiding principles for creating a program that will expand children's possibilities in ways that are compatible with human sociability Includes examples of children's writing reflections on research methods and demographic tables Dyson's ethnographies offer new ways of thinking about writing time and remind us of the importance of play talk and social relationships in children's literacy learning If every literacy researcher could write like Dyson teachers would want to read about research If policymakers took her insights on board classrooms might become more respectful and enjoyable spaces for literacy teaching and learning that soar way above the basics Barbara Comber Queensland University of Technology Australia Child Cultures, Schooling, and Literacy Anne Haas Dyson, 2016-02-19 Through analysis of case studies of young children ages 3 to 8 years situated in different geographic cultural linguistic political and socioeconomic sites on six continents this book examines the interplay of childhoods schooling and literacies Written language is situated within particular childhoods as they unfold in school A key focus is on children's agency in the construction of their own childhoods The book generates diverse perspectives on what written language may mean for childhoods Looking at variations in the complex relationships between official curricular visions and unofficial child initiated visions of relevant composing practices and appropriate cultural resources it offers first insight into how those relationships may change over time and space as children move through early schooling and second understanding of the dynamics of schools and the experience of childhoods through which the local meaning of school literacy is formulated Each case each child in a particular sociocultural site does not represent an essentialized nation or a people but rather a rich processual depiction of childhood being constructed in particular local contexts and the role if any for composing Research in Young Children's Literacy and Language Development Olivia N. Saracho, 2019-12-13 The importance of the early years in young children's lives and the rigid inequality in literacy achievement are a stimulating backdrop to current research in young children's language and literacy development. This book reports new data and empirical analyses that advance the theory of language and literacy with researchers using different methodologies in conducting their study with both a sound empirical underpinning and a captivating analytical rationalization of the results. The contributors to this volume used several methodological methods, e.g., quantitative, qualitative, to describe the complete concept of the study, the achievement of the study, and the study in an appropriate manner based on the study's methodology. The contributions to this volume cover a wide range of topics including dual language learners, Latino immigrant children, children who have hearing disabilities, parents and teachers' beliefs about language development, early literacy skills of toddlers and preschool children, interventions, multimodalities in early literacies, writing, and family literacy. The studies were conducted in various early childhood settings such as child care, nursery school, Head Start, kindergarten, and primary grades, and the subjects in the studies represent the pluralism of the globe, a pluralism of language backgrounds, ethnicity, abilities, and disabilities. This book was originally published as a special issue of Early Child Development and Care.

Literacy and History in Action Thomas M. McCann, Rebecca D'Angelo, Nancy Galas, Mary Greska, 2015. This book offers a solid research and theoretical foundation for combining social studies and literacy instruction. A collaboration between a literacy scholar, two classroom teachers, and a school librarian, this volume also shows teachers how to engage middle and high school students in historical inquiry that incorporates literacy skills like reading complex texts and writing elaborated arguments. The authors present extended simulation activities that immerse students in three eras of U.S. history: European incursions into North America, pre-Revolutionary War, colonialism, and the Civil War and Reconstruction. These simulations allow learners to experience these major periods of U.S. history while they discuss, read, and write in ways that align closely with the Common Core State Standards. The final chapter guides teachers in constructing their own classroom simulations and identifies useful resources.

Book Features: Guidance for integrating language arts and social studies in ways that align with the Common Core State Standards; Simulation activities that show learners actively engaged in inquiry involving collaboration, deliberation, debate, and critical judgments; Models for disciplinary literacy that rely on primary source texts and historical fiction; Examples of student work; website resources; and an online appendix with rubrics for teachers. This terrific book helps teachers think about how to design instruction to provide an education across the curriculum that is provocative and stimulating and that helps young people develop both the thinking and writing skills they will need to succeed in their persuasion. I love this book and wish I were still in the classroom to use both its examples and its principles in my own planning.

From the Foreword by Peter Smagorinsky, Distinguished Research Professor of English Education, College of Education, The University of Georgia.

The SAGE Encyclopedia of Contemporary Early Childhood Education Donna Couchenour, J. Kent

Chrisman, 2016-08-16. The general public often views early childhood education as either simply babysitting or as preparation for later learning. Of course, both viewpoints are simplistic. Deep understanding of child development, best educational practices based on development emergent curriculum cultural competence and applications of family systems are necessary for high quality early education Highly effective early childhood education is rare in that it requires collaboration and transitions among a variety of systems for children from birth through eight years of age The SAGE Encyclopedia of Contemporary Early Childhood Education presents in three comprehensive volumes advanced research accurate practical applications of research historical foundations and key facts from the field of contemporary early childhood education Through approximately 425 entries this work includes all areas of child development physical cognitive language social emotional aesthetic as well as comprehensive review of best educational practices with young children effective preparation for early childhood professionals and policy making practices and addresses such questions as How is the field of early childhood education defined What are the roots of this field of study How is the history of early childhood education similar to yet different from the study of public education What are the major influences on understandings of best practices in early childhood education
