Present Is Past Some Uses Of Tradition In Native Societies:

Coming to Shore Marie Mauzä, Michael Eugene Harkin, Sergei Kan, 2004-01-01 The Northwest Coast of North America was home to dozens of Native peoples at the time of its first contact with Europeans The rich artistic ceremonial and oral traditions of these peoples and their preservation of cultural practices have made this region especially attractive for anthropological study Coming to Shore provides a historical overview of the ethnology and ethnohistory of this region with special attention given to contemporary theoretically informed studies of communities and issues The first book to explore the role of the Northwest Coast in three distinct national traditions of anthropology American Canadian and French Coming to Shore gives particular consideration to the importance of Claude Levi Strauss and structuralism as well as more recent social theory in the context of Northwest Coast anthropology In addition contributors explore the blurring boundaries between theoretical and applied anthropology as well as contemporary issues such as land claims criminal justice environmentalism economic development and museum display The contribution of Frederica de Laguna provides a historical background to the enterprise of Northwest Coast anthropology as do the contributions of Claude Levi Strauss and Marie Mauze Marie Mauze is a senior researcher at the Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique in Paris Her books include Present Is Past Some Uses of Tradition in Native Societies Michael E Harkin is a professor of anthropology at the University of Wyoming and the editor of Reassessing Revitalization Movements Perspectives from North America and the Pacific Islands Nebraska 2004 Sergei Kan is a professor of anthropology and Native American studies at Dartmouth College and author of Memory Eternal Tlingit Culture and Russian Orthodox Christianity through Two Centuries An Ethnography of Global Environmentalism Caroline Gatt, 2017-10-06 Based on nine years of research this is the first book to offer an in depth ethnographic study of a transnational environmentalist federation and of activists themselves The book presents an account of the daily life and the ethical strivings of environmental activist members of Friends of the Earth International FoEI exploring how a transnational federation is constituted and maintained and how different people strive to work together in their hope of contributing to the creation of a better future for the globe In the context of FoEI a great diversity of environmentalisms from around the world are negotiated discussed and evolve in relation to the experiences of the different cultures ecosystems and human situations that the activists bring with them to the federation Key to the global scope of this project is the analysis of FoEI experiments in models for intercultural and inclusive decision making The provisional results of FoEI s ongoing experiments in this area offer a glimpse of how different notions of the environment and being an environmentalist can come to work together without subsuming alterity Syncretism in Religion Anita Maria Leopold, Jeppe Sinding Jensen, 2016-04-01 Syncretism the fusion of different beliefs into one religious system has long been controversial in scholarship It is widely held that religion culture and ethnicity are pure entities that may become mixed in encounter and lead to impure hybrid forms Syncretism in Religion presents a selection of essays committed to solving the problems of syncretism The essays reflect the full breadth of religious traditions that could be called syncretistic An overview of the historical background of syncretism is given alongside classical readings from the history of religion definitions of syncretism in relation to theories of power and an assessment of the future of the subject This volume brings together the work of authors who have made significant contributions in the field some appearing for the first time in English It will be of interest to any student or scholar of religion philosophy or anthropology concerned with the dynamics of cultural contact and change

Ch'orti'-Maya Survival in Eastern Guatemala Brent E. Metz, 2006-05-01 Scholars and Guatemalans have characterized eastern Guatemala as Ladino or non Indian The Ch'orti do not exhibit the obvious indigenous markers found among the Mayas of western Guatemala Chiapas and the Yucatán Peninsula of Mexico Few still speak Ch'orti most no longer wear distinctive dress and most community organizations have long been abandoned During the colonial period the Ch'orti region was adjacent to relatively vibrant economic regions of Central America that included major trade routes mines and dye plantations In the twentieth century Ch'orti s directly experienced U S backed dictatorships a 36 year civil war from start to finish and Christian evangelization campaigns all while their population has increased exponentially These have had tremendous impacts on Ch'orti identities and cultures From 1991 to 1993 Brent Metz lived in three Ch'orti Maya speaking communities learning the language conducting household surveys and interviewing informants He found Ch'orti s to be ashamed of their indigeneity and he was fortunate to be present and involved when many Ch'orti s joined the Maya Movement He has continued to expand his ethnographic research of the Ch'orti annually ever since and has witnessed how Ch'orti s are reformulating their history and identity

Moral Habitat Nancie Erhard, 2012-02-01 Moral Habitat explores how our moral imaginations and moral norms have been shaped by and even cocreated with Earth in diverse biotic communities Weaving together science and religion with indigenous and womanist traditions Nancie Erhard uses examples from a variety of sources including post Cartesian science the Old Testament and the Mi'kmaq tribe of Eastern Canada She demonstrates how each portrays the agency including the moral agency of the natural world From this cross cultural approach she recasts the question of how we conceive of humans as moral agents While written for the sake of Earth this thought provoking book goes well beyond the issue of ecology to show the contribution that such an approach can make to pluralist ethics on a range of timely social issues

Troubling Tricksters Deanna Reder, Linda M. Morra, 2010-02-10 Troubling Tricksters is a collection of theoretical essays creative pieces and critical ruminations that provides a re-visioning of trickster criticism in light of recent backlash against it The complaints of some Indigenous writers the critique from Indigenous nationalist critics and the changing of academic fashion have resulted in few new studies on the trickster For example The Cambridge Companion to Native American Literature 2005 includes only a brief mention of the trickster with skeptical commentary And in 2007 Anishinaabe scholar Niigonwedon Sinclair a contributor to this volume called for a moratorium on studies of the trickster irrelevant to the specific experiences and interests of Indigenous nations One of the objectives of this anthology is then to encourage scholarship that is mindful of the critic's responsibility to communities and to focus discussions on incarnations of tricksters in their particular national contexts. The contribution of Troubling Tricksters therefore is twofold: to offer a timely counterbalance to this growing critical lacuna and to propose new approaches to trickster studies approaches that have been clearly influenced by the nationalists' call for cultural and historical specificity.

Tupuna Awa Marama Muru-Lanning, 2016-09-12 For hapū of the lands that border its 425 kilometre length the Waikato River is an ancestor, a taonga and a source of mauri lying at the heart of identity and chiefly power. It is also subject to governing oversight by the Crown and intersected by numerous power stations managed by state-owned energy companies, a situation rife with complexity and subject to shifting and subtle power dynamics. In this book Marama Muru-Lanning explains how Māori of the region, the Crown and Mighty River Power have talked about the ownership, guardianship and stakeholders of the river. By examining the debates over water in one New Zealand river over a single recent period, Muru-Lanning provides a powerful lens through which to view modern iwi politics, debates over water ownership and contests for power between Māori and the state.

Salish Archipelago Moshe Rapaport, 2024-06-24 The Salish Archipelago includes more than 400 islands in the Salish Sea, an amalgamation of Canada's Georgia Strait, the United States Puget Sound and the shared Strait of Juan de Fuca. The Salish Sea and Islands are named for the Coast Salish Indigenous Peoples whose homelands extend across the region. Holiday homes and services have in many places displaced pristine ecosystems. Indigenous communities and historic farms will age-old island environments and communities withstand the forces of commodity-driven economies. This new major scholarly undertaking provides the geographical and historical background for exploring such questions. Salish Archipelago features sections on environment, history, society and management, accompanied by numerous maps and other illustrations. This diverse collection offers an overview of an embattled but resilient region, providing knowledge and perspectives of interest to residents, educators and policy makers.

Critical Inuit Studies Pamela R. Stern, Lisa Stevenson, 2006-12-01 Critical Inuit Studies offers an overview of the current state of Inuit studies by bringing together the insights and fieldwork of more than a dozen scholars from six countries currently working with Native communities in the far north. The volume showcases the latest methodologies and interpretive perspectives, presents a multitude of instructive case studies with individuals and communities and shares the personal and professional insights from the fieldwork and thought of distinguished researchers. The wide-ranging topics in this collection include the development of a circumpolar research policy, the complex identities of Inuit in the twenty-first century, the transformative relationship between anthropologist and collaborator, the participatory method of conducting research, the interpretation of body gesture and the reproduction of culture, the use of translation in oral history, memory and the construction of a collective Inuit identity, the intricate relationship between politics, indigenous citizenship and resource development, the importance of place names, housing policies and the transition from igloos to permanent houses and social networks in the urban setting of Montreal Citizens Plus Alan C. Cairns, 2011-11-01 We are in the midst of a fundamental re evaluation of the desired relation of Aboriginal and non Aboriginal peoples to each other and of how the former are to be institutionally and constitutionally accommodated within Canada Words matter How we think about where we are and about the future goal of our relationship can confine us in an intellectual prison or liberate us from choices we will otherwise regret In Citizens Plus Alan Cairns unravels the historical record to clarify the current impasse in negotiations between Aboriginal peoples and the state He considers the assimilationist policy assumptions of the imperial era examines more recent government initiatives and analyzes the emergence of the nation to nation paradigm given massive support by the Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples We are battered by contending visions he argues a revised assimilation policy that finds its support in the Canadian Alliance Party is countered by the nation to nation vision which frames our future as coexisting solitudes Citizens Plus stakes out a middle ground with its support for constitutional and institutional arrangements which will simultaneously recognize Aboriginal difference and reinforce a solidarity which binds us together in common citizenship Essential reading for those in political science history Native studies public administration and law Citizens Plus will also appeal to the general public interested in one of the most important and complex issues on our agenda Selected as a BC Book for Everybody
