Rhetorics of Value Corinne A. Kratz, 2025-03-28 In Rhetorics of Value Corinne A. Kratz explores how exhibition design creates and conveys values that have the potential to touch, educate and engage visitors. Drawing on case studies from the Victoria and Albert Museum, museums in South Africa and Kenya, a Hawaiian resort hotel and the Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture, among others, Kratz shows how exhibits help shape and narrate cultural categories, values and histories while provoking questions and evoking memories and experiences. She crosses contexts to consider ethnographic history and art exhibits in national and community museums and other display settings. Through these examples, Kratz traces how exhibition designers combine objects, texts, images, lighting, audio, space and narratives to craft a complex, multilayered communicative form that visitors experience as they move through museums. By investigating the relationship between audience reception and exhibition design strategies, Kratz contends that through design, exhibits can shape the ways we know the stories we tell and our contours of meaning and engagement.

The Anatomy Museum Elizabeth Hallam, 2008 Anatomy museums around the world showcase preserved corpses in service of education and medical advancement, but they are little known and have been largely hidden from the public eye. Elizabeth Hallam here investigates the anatomy museum and how it reveals the fascination and fears that surround the dead body in Western societies. Hallam explores the history of these museums and how they operate in the current cultural environment. Their regulated access increasingly clashes with evolving public mores toward the exposed body, as demonstrated by the international popularity of the Body Worlds exhibition. The book examines such related topics as artistic works that employ the images of dead bodies and the larger ongoing debate over the disposal of corpses. Issues such as aesthetics and science, organ and body donations and the dead body in Western religion and ritual are also discussed here in fascinating depth. The Anatomy Museum unearths a strange and compelling cultural history that investigates the ideas of preservation, human rituals of death and the spaces that our bodies occupy in this life and beyond.

National Museums and Nation-building in Europe 1750-2010 Peter Aronsson, Gabriella Elgenius, 2014-12-05 Europe's national museums have since their creation been at the centre of on-going nation-making processes. National museums negotiate conflicts and contradictions and entrain the community sufficiently to obtain the support of scientists and art connoisseurs, citizens and taxpayers, policy makers, domestic and foreign visitors alike. National Museums and Nation building in Europe 1750-2010 assesses the national museum as a manifestation of cultural and political desires rather than that a straightforward representation of the historical facts of a nation. National Museums and Nation building in Europe 1750-2010 examines the
