Multitude, Solitude Keith F. Davis, Michael Torosian, 2015 The work of American photographer Dave Heath b 1931 stuns with its emotional potency Exploring themes of loneliness and alienation in modern society Heath s photographs depict strangers riding the train watching a Thanksgiving parade staring pensively at their dining room table or kissing on the side of a street Entirely self taught Heath stretches the boundaries of the medium and explores the potential of the photo narrative through handmade book maquettes innovative multimedia slide presentations and other photographic experimentations This is the first comprehensive survey of Heath s deeply personal work focusing on his astounding contributions to black and white photography These images span the first 20 years of his career 1949 to 1969 and many of them are previously unpublished Filling a major gap in scholarship the catalogue surveys the most groundbreaking facets of Heath s creative work and highlights its historical importance Heath s art is ripe for rediscovery and this book reaffirms his status as a key figure in 20th century American photography Orpington to Ontario 2019 John Pateman, 2020 This is a record of my life in Thunder Bay during 2019 the places I visited including Ketchum Idaho and Washington DC and the conferences I attended Contemporary Photographers , 1982 Robert Frank Stuart Alexander, 1986 This book is also a kind of anthology Many of Frank s statements particularly some of the more obscure ones are reproduced here in full Some elusive texts about Frank are reprinted as well Page v Dave Heath, A Dialogue with Solitude David Heath, Michael Torosian, Simon Lowinsky (Gallery), 1997 Photography Index , 1979-03-15 Mapping the Moving Image Pasi Väliäho, 2010 In Mapping the Moving Image Pasi Väliäho offers a compelling study of how the medium of film came to shape our experience and thinking of the world and ourselves By locating the moving image in new ways of seeing and saying as manifest in the arts science and philosophy at the turn of the twentieth century the book redefines the cinema as one of the most important anthropological processes of modernity Moving beyond the typical understanding of cinema based on optical and linguistic models Mapping the Moving Image takes the notion of rhythm as its cue in conceptualizing the medium s morphogenetic potentialities to generate affectivity behaviour and logics of sense It provides a clear picture of how the forms of early film while mobilizing bodily gestures and demanding intimate affective engagement from the viewer emerged in relation to bio political investments in the body The book also charts from a fresh perspective how the new gestural dynamics and visuality of the moving image fed into our thinking of time memory and the unconscious Photography , 1896 *Catalog of Copyright Entries.
