Musee Lhomme Collectif:

, The Museum Establishment and Contemporary Art Rebecca J. DeRoo, 2006-01-09 This book provides an in depth account of the protests that shook France in 1968 and which served as a catalyst to a radical reconsideration of artistic practice that has shaped both art and museum exhibitions up to the present Rebecca DeRoo examines how issues of historical and personal memory the separation of public and private domains and the ordinary objects of everyday life emerged as central concerns for museums and for artists as both struggled to respond to the protests She argues that the responses of the museums were only partially faithful to the aims of the activist movements Museums in fact often misunderstood and misrepresented the work of artists that was exhibited as a means of addressing these concerns Analyzing how museums and critics did and did not address the aims of the protests DeRoo highlights the issues relevant to the politics of the public display of art that have been central to artistic representation in France as well as in North America

Dossier - Musée National de L'homme, Service Canadien D'ethnologie, 1983 In the Museum of Man Alice L. Conklin, 2013-10-04 In the Museum of Man offers new insight into the thorny relationship between science society and empire at the high water mark of French imperialism and European racism Alice L Conklin takes us into the formative years of French anthropology and social theory between 1850 and 1900 then deep into the practice of anthropology under the name of ethnology both in Paris and in the empire before and especially after World War I and finally into the fate of the discipline and its practitioners under the German Occupation and its immediate aftermath Conklin addresses the influence exerted by academic networks museum collections and imperial connections in defining human diversity socioculturally rather than biologically especially in the wake of resurgent anti-Semitism at the time of the Dreyfus Affair and in the 1930s and 1940s Students of the progressive social scientist Marcel Mauss were exposed to the ravages of imperialism in the French colonies where they did fieldwork as a result they began to challenge both colonialism and the scientific racism that provided its intellectual justification Indeed a number of them were killed in the Resistance fighting for the humanist values they had learned from their teachers and in the field A riveting story of a close knit community of scholars who came to see all societies as equally complex In the Museum of Man serves as a reminder that if scientific expertise once authorized racism anthropologists also learned to rethink their paradigms and mobilize against racial prejudice a lesson well worth remembering today André Malraux G. Poetics of Repair Katarzyna Pieprzak, 2024-12-13 Today most colonial era modernist mass housing is seen as fundamentally broken crumbling concrete spaces of social alienation and containment that fractured societies both then and now In Poetics of Repair Katarzyna Pieprzak examines how contemporary visual literary and performance art of the Maghreb has the potential to change the terms histories and imagined futures of mass housing in North Africa and France Pieprzak dives deeply into contemporary art engagements with three mass housing sites that epitomize the French colonial geography of modernist architecture in the Maghreb She identifies in this art what she names a transformative poetics of repair a practice that conjoins puts in relation or simply

Collective Memory Jo McCormack, 2010-01-01 Collective Memory examines the difficult transmission of memory in France of the Algerian War of independence 1954 1962 Emphasizing the current lack of transmission of memories of this war through a detailed case study of three crucial vectors of memory the teaching of school history coverage in the media and discussion in the family author Jo McCormack argues that lack of transmission of memories is feeding into contemporary racism and exclusion in France Collective Memory draws extensively on interviews with historians teachers and pupils as well as on secondary sources and media analysis McCormack proposes that a greater work of memory needs to be undertaken if France is to overcome the division in French society that stems from the war There has been little reconciliation of divisive group memories a situation that leaves many individuals without a voice on this important subject Memory battles dominate discussion of the topic as many issues periodically flare up and cannot yet be overcome Book jacket
