

A close-up photograph of a person's hand with dark skin and purple nail polish, wearing a gold ring and a thin gold bracelet. The hand is reaching towards a colorful, abstract, 3D structure that resembles a map or a complex sculpture. The structure is composed of many small, colorful pieces (blue, yellow, red, green) arranged in a way that suggests a geographical or cultural layout. The background is a plain, light-colored surface.

Museums In Motion Museums In Motion:

Museums in Motion Edward P. Alexander, Mary Alexander, 2007-11-29 In 1979 Edward P. Alexander's Museums in Motion was hailed as a much needed addition to the museum literature. In combining the history of museums since the eighteenth century with a detailed examination of the function of museums and museum workers in modern society, it served as an essential resource for those seeking to enter the museum profession and for established professionals looking for an expanded understanding of their own discipline. Now Mary Alexander has produced a newly revised edition of the classic text, bringing it to the twenty-first century with coverage of emerging trends, resources, and challenges. New material also includes a discussion of the children's museum as a distinct type of institution and an exploration of the role computers play in both outreach and traditional in-person visits.

Museums in Motion Edward Porter Alexander, 1979 Museums in Motion Juilee Decker, 2024-08-06 This book explores the histories and functions of museums while also looking at the current standing of museums and their ongoing efforts toward relevance, resiliency, and future proofing. Section I examines the beginnings of museums with chapters dedicated to art and design museums, natural history and anthropological museums, science museums, museums focused on history and the past, and gardens, zoos, and children's museums. Emphasis is on museums in the United States with some historical framing beyond the U.S. Section II explores the primary functions of museums, including conservation, exhibition, interpretation, engagement, and service. Section III examines museums from within by exploring critical issues and contemporary movements facing museums and our society: transparency and openness, labor and equity, belonging and coalition building, risk taking and risk aversion, and sustainability and empathy. Advocating for change rather than death to museums, Museums in Motion demonstrates the very premise that museums have been in motion all along as they have shifted from their rather simple form of a treasury storehouse and tomb to something much more complex by deeply considering where museums have come from, where they are today, and where they are going. Entirely new to this edition, Section III: Museum Aspirations features five new chapters, each centered around topics rather than a museum type or museum function. Each topic is meant to be a micro narrative and springboard for a conversation about museums today and their sustainability in the future. The chapters examine museums from the inside: museum workers and their voices, especially as well as power held by people and institutions, and DEI/AA without using those individual words as chapter headings. On their own or in conjunction with the chapters in the previous sections of this book, these chapters serve as vignettes that can help readers to understand where, how, and why we need to apply critical lenses to institutions and articulate how doing so helps us to understand this historical moment and ultimately how we can realize resiliency and sustainability for museums and those who make their existence possible.

Qualitative Research in Art Museums Ann Rowson Love, Deborah Randolph, 2024-02-20 An Introductory Guide to Qualitative Research in Art Museums is a practice based guide that is designed to introduce qualitative research to established and upcoming museum professionals and increase their confidence to conduct this type of research Highlighting the work of researchers who are studying museums around the world the book begins by explaining why there is a need for qualitative research in museums Rowson Love and Randolph then go on to provide guidance including theories and frameworks on how to envision a qualitative research project that facilitates meaningful interpretation of visitor experiences Chapters in the methodology section begin with descriptions of featured qualitative methodologies and will assist readers as they determine which are most appropriate for their projects and as they advocate for their research The final section will prepare readers still further by demonstrating data analysis and reporting using the examples in the book An Introductory Guide to Qualitative Research in Art Museums will help museum professionals and students engaged in the study of museums expand their repertoire to include qualitative methodologies and explain the methods needed to conduct analyze and report their qualitative research It will be particularly useful to those with an interest in museum education visitor studies and audience research exhibition development leadership and management Museum in Bewegung? Carel Blotkamp, 1979 Museums, Children and Social Action Sharon E. Shaffer, 2023-12-15 Museums Children and Social Action examines the role that museums play in reaching teaching and inspiring children as global citizens of the world and looking to the future argues that the sustainability of museums will come from strengthening relationships with young visitors Presenting a diverse range of programs exhibitions and outreach from museums across five continents Shaffer highlights how museums are already serving children and making a difference in their lives Arguing that museums have a unique responsibility to connect this audience with relevant social issues and challenges such as social injustice racism climate change and poverty Shaffer simultaneously acknowledges that a large number of children are still on the margins of the institution and its mission Recognizing the ways in which museums are currently serving children the book also considers what museums could and should be doing as they plan for the future raising critical questions about core values community partners and social agendas Museums Children and Social Action is essential reading for academics and students engaged in the study of museums social justice and childhood It encourages museums to make it their mission to educate and serve this audience and their families for the good of children as well as museums while also considering what their institutions can do to make a lasting impact on children and their families F-O Library of Congress.
