Music In 1853 The Biography Of A Year:

The Creative Worlds of Joseph Joachim Valerie Woodring Goertzen, Robert Whitehouse Eshbach, 2021 Examines Joseph Joachim's vital legacy through a range of philological, philosophical and critical approaches. Joseph Joachim (1831–1907) violinist, composer, teacher and founding director of Berlin's Royal Academy of Music was one of the most eminent and influential musicians of the long nineteenth century. Born in a tiny Jewish community on the Austro-Hungarian border, he rose to a position of unsurpassed prominence in European cultural life. This timely collection of essays explores important yet little-known aspects of Joachim's life and art: Studies of his Jewish background, early assimilation into Christian society, Felix Mendelssohn's mentorship and the influence of Hungarian vernacular music on the formation of his musical style elucidate the roots of Joachim's identity. The later chapters focus on his personal and creative responses to the contentious and rapidly evolving cultural milieu in which he lived: his choice of instruments as his musical voice, his performances as sites of re-enchantment in the modern age, his pathbreaking British career, his calling and sway as a quartet player, his pedagogical legacy, his influence on the establishment of the musical canon and several of his most distinctive and original compositions. With a wide variety of approaches—analytical, philological, archival, philosophical and critical—this collection will prove enlightening to scholars, performers and others interested in this brilliant artist and the musical aesthetics, culture and styles of his time.

Music in 1853 Hugh Macdonald, 2012 No one composer is at the centre of this fascinating story but a larger picture emerges of a shift in musical scenery from the world of the innocent Romanticism of Berlioz and Schumann to the more potent musical politics of Wagner and of his antidote as many saw him, Brahms. The Musical Life of Nineteenth-Century Belfast Roy Johnston, 2017-07-05 Roy Johnston and Declan Plummer provide a refreshing portrait of Belfast in the nineteenth century Before his death Roy Johnston had written a full draft based on an impressive array of contemporary sources with deep and detailed attention especially to contemporary newspapers With the deft and sensitive contribution of Declan Plummer the finished book offers a telling view of Belfast s thriving musical life Largely without the participation and example of local aristocracy nobility and gentry Belfast s musical society was formed largely by the townspeople themselves in the eighteenth century and by several instrumental and choral societies in the nineteenth century As the town grew in size and developed an industrial character its townspeople identified increasingly with the large industrial towns and cities of the British mainland Efforts to place themselves on the principal touring circuit of the great nineteenth century concert artists led them to build a concert hall not in emulation of Dublin but of the British industrial towns Belfast audiences had experienced English opera in the eighteenth century and in due course in the nineteenth century they found themselves receiving the touring opera companies in theatres newly built to accommodate them Through an energetic groundwork revision of contemporary sources Johnston and Plummer reveal a picture of sustained vitality and development that justifies Belfast s prominent place the history of nineteenth century musical culture in Ireland and more broadly in the British Isles Appletons' Cyclopaedia of American Biography James Grant Wilson, John Fiske, 1888
