Teaching Through the Ill Body Marla Morris, 2008-01-01. This book raises questions around pedagogy and illness. Morris explores two large issues that run through the text: What does the ill body teach? What does the teacher do through the ill body? The body has something to teach while teaching through the ill body. This book is theoretically framed by connections between spirituality and aesthetics. As the great spiritual traditions teach, our responsibility as teachers is to help others, especially those who are marginalized. What is lacking in our educational discourse is a discussion of the responsibility we all have to help those who get sick and not marginalize them. More specifically, pedagogical and curricular questions are fleshed out through working in the area of curriculum studies, depth psychology, and the medical humanities. These three disciplines have something in common: autobiography. But in the field of curriculum studies, autobiographies, pathographies of sickness, are few and far between. This book is meant to fill that gap in the educational literature. This pathography is a study that explores the mysteries of suffering, storytelling, memory, and poesis. Compassion, woundedness, vulnerability, testimony, and authenticity are all issues Morris raises here. Teachers, scholars, depth psychologists, and medical educators might be particularly interested in this intensely felt narrative about what it is like for teachers to teach while suffering from chronic illness.

True Mind Tom Steward, 2011-06-03. In True Mind, Tom Steward makes a daring attempt at describing practically and specifically how we may grow and change in Christ by the Spirit. Written for today's disciple, this book seeks to illuminate and inspire as well as instruct those who seek to be renewed and enlarged in their inner lives. In the three parts of this book, Steward addresses the following: Our Inner Legacy: Beginning with a proper foundation, knowing God for who He is, glory and majesty, and encountering Him in intimacy. Knowing who we are and what we have been given that we may carry out our destiny in the Lord. Learning to listen and hear, know and see our God, and all

He has to offer us Walking in Gods energy and power and the unlimited bounds of His provision Our Inner Work Understanding the role of the Spirit as he searches and reveals to us all we need to know about God and ourselves Offering submission and surrender as a daily spiritual practice Ensuring that we respond well to all the issues of life the arrows that strike us all too often as God supplies His goodness and mercy Contending with the inner nature of sin as it is represented by fear and pride and offering humility and courage as a timely replacement Our Inner Life Experiencing the mystery of oneness with God and being found in Him as He is in us Knowing transformation and renewal so that God can drape his righteousness and holiness over us like a garment Learning to be still and at rest as we abide and flow in and with our God and learning the benefits of thanks and praise in all of our days The Life of the Senses François Laplantine, 2020-05-31 Both a vital theoretical work and a fine illustration of the principles and practice of sensory ethnography this much anticipated translation is destined to figure as a major catalyst in the expanding field of sensory studies Drawing on his own fieldwork in Brazil and Japan and a wide range of philosophical literary and cinematic sources the author outlines his vision for a modal anthropology François Laplantine challenges the primacy accorded to sign and structure in conventional social science research and redirects attention to the tonalities and rhythmic intensities of different ways of living Arguing that meaning sensation and sociality cannot be considered separately he calls for a politics of the sensible and a complete reorientation of our habitual ways of understanding reality The book also features an introduction to the sensory and social thought of François Laplantine by the editor of the Sensory Studies series David Howes The Rhythms Of Life Leon Kreitzman, Russell Foster, 2011-09-30 Popular science at its most exciting the breaking new world of chronobiology understanding the rhythm of life in humans and all plants and animals The entire natural world is full of rhythms The early bird catches the worm and migrates to an internal calendar Dormice hibernate away the winter Plants open and close their flowers at the same hour each day Bees search out nectar rich flowers day after day There are cicadas that can breed for only two weeks every 17 years And in humans why are people who work anti social shifts more illness prone and die younger What is jet lag and can anything help Why do teenagers refuse to get up in the morning and are the rest of us really larks or owls Why are most people born and die between 3am 5am And should patients be given medicines and operations at set times of day because the body reacts so differently in the morning evening and at night The answers lie in our biological clocks the mechanisms which give order to all living things They impose a structure that enables us to change our behaviour in relation to the time of day month or year They are reset at sunrise and sunset each day to link astronomical time with an organism s internal time

Improvised Lives AbdouMalik Simone, 2018-12-05 The poor and working people in cities of the South find themselves in urban spaces that are conventionally construed as places to reside or inhabit But what if we thought of popular districts in more expansive ways that capture what really goes on within them In such cities popular districts are the settings of more uncertain operations that take place under the cover of darkness generating uncanny alliances among disparate bodies materials and things and expanding the urban sensorium and its capacities for liveliness In this important new book AbdouMalik Simone explores the nature of these alliances portraying urban districts as sites of enduring transformations through rhythms that mediate between the needs of residents not to draw too much attention to themselves and their aspirations to become a small niche of exception Here we discover an urban South that exists as dense rhythms of endurance that turn out to be vital for survival connectivity and becoming Gnostic Fools Agnes Horvath, 2025-11-11 This book offers a political anthropological discussion of our contemporary situation regarding sceptical attitudes towards scientific expertise and authority and the increasing role of power and politics It does so through an exploration of the fool or Gnostic fool as a type drawing on ideas about the modality of the anthropological trickster figure and the mentalities that this type disseminates Arguing that a recent dissolution of stable identities has made orderly action and connections impossible the author shows that we are now entering into a confused understanding of ourselves no longer linked to history or society nor to our sexes or personality In this period the growing interest in magical and occult traditions reflects increasing feelings of powerlessness against the whims of politics power and authority where rational thinking disappoints and fails a new Gnostic universe is born The relationship between standard uses of the fool and the Gnostic fool is addressed using political and social theory sociology and anthropology religious studies and the history of ideas The book thus combines a study of familiar traditional texts with unusual phenomena from both recent and distant history elucidating their surprising prevalence in surrounding contemporary power structures Addressing a crucial aspect of contemporary reality characterising and interrogating the self production of fools and the Gnostic intellectual type it details a serious and puzzling blind spot in academic scholarship As such it will be of central relevance to scholars researchers and postgraduate students working in anthropology ethnography sociology historical sociology religious studies and philosophy worldwide
