Presenting and Representing Environments Graham Humphrys, Michael Williams, 2006-01-27 The presentation and representation of the environment occurs throughout academia and across all news media The strict protocols of science often clash with environmental information available from sources that dwell on subjective aesthetic emotional and personal sensitivities This book challenge the reader as student teacher researcher or policy maker to reflect critically on the ways that environments are studied interpreted presented and represented in education and public policy Conceptualizing Environmental Citizenship for 21st Century Education Andreas Ch. Hadjichambis, Pedro Reis, Demetra Paraskeva-Hadjichambi, Jan Činčera, Jelle Boeve-de Pauw, Niklas Gericke, Marie-Christine Knippels, 2020-02-26 This Open Access book is about the development of a common understanding of environmental citizenship It conceptualizes and frames environmental citizenship taking an educational perspective Organized in four complementary parts the book first explains the political economic and societal dimensions of the concept Next it examines environmental citizenship as a psychological concept with a specific focus on knowledge values beliefs and attitudes It then explores environmental citizenship within the context of environmental education and education for sustainability It elaborates responsible environmental behaviour youth activism and education for sustainability through the lens of environmental citizenship Finally it discusses the concept within the context of different educational levels such as primary and secondary education in formal and non formal settings Environmental citizenship is a key factor in sustainability green and cycle economy and low carbon society and an important aspect in addressing global environmental problems It has been an influential concept in many different arenas such as economy policy philosophy and organizational marketing In the field of education the concept could be better exploited and established however Education and especially environmental discourses in science education have a great deal to contribute to the adoption and promotion of environmental citizenship The Post-Socialist City Kiril Stanilov, 2007-08-13 In the large body of literature produced during the last fifteen years on the transformation of Eastern European societies after the fall of communism studies investigating changes in urban form and structure have been quite rare Yet a profound reorganization of the manner in which urban space is appropriated has taken place impacting the life of over 200 million urban residents in the region The patterns of spatial organization which have been established during this fairly limited but critical timeframe are likely to set the direction of future urban development in CEE cities for a long time This book focuses on the spatial transformations in the most dynamically evolving urban areas of post socialist Central and Eastern Europe linking the restructuring of the built environment with the underlying processes and forces of socio economic reforms We hope that the detailed accounts of the spatial transformations in a key moment of urban history in the region will enhance our understanding of the linkages between society and space adding to the knowledge that is needed for resolving the difficult challenges facing cities throughout the globe in the beginning of the twenty first century Political Economies of

Landscape Change James L. Jr Wescoat, Douglas M. Johnston, 2007-12-05 Places of Power Political Economies of Landscape Change asks how politics and economics transform the landscapes we inhabit This volume explores the connections between political economy and landscape change through a series of conceptual essays and case studies In so doing it speaks to a broad readership of landscape architects geographers and related fields of social and environmental research The book consists of an introductory essay with nine chapters commissioned from leading geographers landscape architects political scientists and economists and a concluding essay on implications for future landscape inquiry and design The book is organized in three major sections Part one titled Landscapes of Struggle Possibility and Prosperity includes a chapter on new axioms for reading the landscape followed by two chapters that read processes of economic development and distress in mountain landscapes of the U S and South America Part Two on Political and Economic Driving Forces of Landscape Change includes two chapters each on political driving forces political constructs and institutions and economic driving forces environmental economics and global financial markets Part Three titled Integrative Landscape Change compares innovative rural landscape policies in Europe and the U S and draws implications for future landscape inquiry planning and design

Enterprising Worlds Jay D. Gatrell, Neil Reid, 2007-05-16 Enterprising World represents the culmination of several years of work by geographers planners and economists The chapters represent the collective efforts of the International Geographical Union's Commission on the Dynamics of Economic Spaces This collection is the result of the 2005 annual meeting in Toledo Ohio USA The chapters have been selected based on their contribution to the broader community of economic geographers and policymakers and to demonstrate the inherent interconnectedness of these themes and at times the conceptual tension that exists between ethics economics and the environment insofar as these important issues shape the contours and cleavages of contemporary regional development In particular the chapters represent the diversity of perspectives on these issues The authors provide insight into the workings of a variety of communities regions and nations as they seek to balance economic growth with the growing necessity to simultaneously promote ethical and sustainable regional development As such this book is truly international in both scale and scope and provides the reader with a survey of emerging and established concepts theories and conflicts in economic geography

Learning from Clusters Ron A. Boschma, Robert C. Kloosterman, 2006-03-30 Jan Lambooy retired in October 2002 When Jan was asked how he wanted to celebrate this occasion he was adamant that no great festivities should take place Characteristically Jan wanted just a scientific conference so he could learn something from it and as he insisted no great festivities So that is what we did and a conference was organised in Amsterdam on 25 October 2002 hosted by the Faculty of Economics and Econometrics of the University of Amsterdam Friends of Jan's from academia in the Netherlands and abroad participated and thus paid homage to Jan both as a scientist and as a person We are now very proud to present this festschrift firstly as the palpable result of this conference and secondly as a token of sincere respect and great affection for Jan Edited volumes run the danger of being a hotchpotch of contributions on a wide variety of topics Here we have explicitly focused on a central theme in contemporary economic geography and regional science namely the relationship between learning innovation and clustering Internationally renowned scientists made both theoretical and empirical contributions to this volume We think this book constitutes a broad palette of contemporary thinking and research on the relationship between spatial concentration and innovation and hope it will play a significant role in future debates on this issue

Geospatial Technologies and Homeland Security

Daniel Sui, 2008-05-25 Homeland security and context In the Geographical Dimensions of Terrorism GDOT Cutter et al 2003 the first book after 9 11 to address homeland security and geography we developed several thematic research agendas and explored intersections between geographic research and the importance of context both geographical and political in relationship to the concepts of terrorism and security It is good to see that a great deal of new thought and research continues to flow from that initial research agenda as illustrated by many of the papers of this new book entitled Geospatial Technologies and Homeland Security Research Frontiers and Future Challenges Context is relevant not only to understanding homeland security issues broadly but also to the conduct of research on geospatial technologies It is impossible to understand the implications of a homeland security strategy let alone hope to make predictions conduct meaningful modeling and research or assess the value and dangers of geospatial technologies without consideration of overarching political social economic and geographic contexts within which these questions are posed

Geographical Education in a Changing World John

Lidstone, Michael Williams, 2006-07-19 This book results from the work of the Commission on Geographical Education of the International Geographical Union Part 1 focuses on the distinctive traditions of school geography Part 2 reviews the state of school geography on a broad continental basis including national case studies by local experts The final chapters extrapolate from the present and point to likely future developments in the subject again with examples drawn from various countries Dynamic Trip Modelling Robert G.V. Baker, 2006-08-05 The thesis of this book is that there are one set of equations that can define any trip between an origin and destination The idea originally came from work that I did when applying the hydrodynamic analogy to study congested traffic flows in 1981 However I was disappointed to find out that much of the mathematical work had already been done decades earlier When I looked for a new application I realised that shopping centre demand could be like a longitudinal wave governed by centre opening and closing times Further a solution to the differential equation was the gravity model and this suggested that time was somehow part of distance decay This was published in 1985 and represented a different approach to spatial interaction modelling The next step was to translate the abstract theory into something that could be tested empirically To this end I am grateful to my Ph D supervisor Professor Barry Garner who taught me that it is not sufficient just to have a theoretical model This book is an outcome of this on going quest to look at how the evolution of the model performs against real world data This is a far more difficult process than numerical simulations but the results have been more valuable to policy formulation and closer to what I think is spatial science The testing and application of the model required the compilation of shopping centre surveys and an Internet data set

Cities in Transition Rita Schneider-Sliwa, 2006-01-23 This book was written with the aim of showing that even in the era of globalization developments appearing in cities are not subject to almost unconditional global forces Rather universal forces are decisive eventualities in the process of urban restructuring often influencing its course and speed yet developments and particularities within a city strongly influence the course of events and the extent to which negative characteristics of globalization might occur Berlin Brussels Hanoi Ho Chi Minh City Hong Kong Jerusalem Johannesburg Moscow St Petersburg Sarajevo and Vienna Using these important cities the special relationship between global and local regional forces is analyzed The case studies were selected based on their political and cultural context and the fact that their social and political fabric was subject to major changes in the recent past How global processes manifest themselves locally depends to a great extent on how development processes and endogenic potentials are initiated locally in order to cope with the new global economic and societal conditions
