Quabbin The Accidental Wilderness:

Quabbin, the Accidental Wilderness Thomas Conuel, 1981 Conuel skillfully provides an overview of the region a discussion of its people the reasons for the construction of the reservoir and the impact of the project on human settlements and natural resources Historical Journal of Massachusetts Nature Next Door Ellen Stroud, 2012-12-15 The once denuded northeastern United States is now a region of trees Nature Next Door argues that the growth of cities the construction of parks the transformation of farming the boom in tourism and changes in the timber industry have together brought about a return of northeastern forests Although historians and historical actors alike have seen urban and rural areas as distinct they are in fact intertwined and the dichotomies of farm and forest agriculture and industry and nature and culture break down when the focus is on the history of Northeastern woods Cities trees mills rivers houses and farms are all part of a single transformed regional landscape In an examination of the cities and forests of the northeastern United States with particular attention to the woods of Maine New Hampshire Pennsylvania and Vermont Ellen Stroud shows how urbanization processes there fostered a period of recovery for forests with cities not merely consumers of nature but creators as well Interactions between city and hinterland in the twentieth century Northeast created a new wildness of metropolitan nature a reforested landscape intricately entangled with the region's cities and towns Lost Towns of the Swift River Valley: Drowned by the Quabbin Elena Palladino, 2022-10 In April 1938 Swift River Valley residents held a farewell ball to mark the demise of the quintessential New England town of Enfield and its three smaller neighbors Greenwich Dana and Prescott The Commonwealth of Massachusetts sacrificed these three towns to build the Quabbin a massive reservoir of drinking water for residents of Boston Three prominent residents attended the somber occasion Marion Andrews Smith was the last surviving member of an important manufacturing family Willard Doc Segur was the valley's beloved country doctor and town leader And Edwin Henry Howe was Enfield's postmaster and general store proprietor They helped build their beloved community for decades only to watch grief stricken as it was destroyed by 400 billion gallons of water Author and historian Elena Palladino recounts the story of these communities as seen through eyes of those who lived there until the end

Ghost Towns of New England Taryn Plumb, 2022-10-01 People are inexplicably drawn to abandoned places Believe it or not New England is home to numerous ghost towns long abandoned but filled with mystery unexpected beauty and a sense that these locations are simply biding their time waiting for people to return Taryn Plumb explores dozens of locations in the region revealing the surprising histories of the towns and the reasons they were abandoned In Maine sites include Flagstaff whose citizens were forced out to make way for a dam and which now sits at the bottom of Flagstaff Lake Riceville wiped out by cholera and Perkins Township which was abandoned so suddenly the remaining houses are still filled with furnishings Locations in New Hampshire's White Mountains Vermont Massachusetts and Connecticut are also covered in this unique and fascinating tour North of Quabbin Revisited Allen Young, 2003 In the Nature of Things Jane Bennett, William Chaloupka,1993 Annotation Informed by recent developments in literary criticism and social theory this book addresses the presumption that nature exists independent of culture and in particular of language Proceedings of the ...

Northeastern Recreation Research Symposium ,2002 Defying Displacement Anthony Oliver-Smith,2010-08-01 The uprooting and displacement of people has long been among the hardships associated with development and modernity Indeed the circulation of commodities currency and labor in modern society necessitates both social and spatial mobility However the displacement and resettlement of millions of people each year by large scale infrastructural projects raises serious questions about the democratic character of the development process Although designed to spur economic growth many of these projects leave local people struggling against serious impoverishment and gross violations of human rights Working from a political ecological perspective Anthony Oliver Smith offers the first book to document the fight against involuntary displacement and resettlement being waged by people and communities around the world Increasingly over the last twenty five years the voices of people at the grass roots are being heard People from many societies and cultures are taking action against development forced displacement and resettlement DFDR and articulating alternatives Taking the promise of democracy seriously they are fighting not only for their place in the world but also for their place at the negotiating table where decisions affecting their well being are made The Girls and Boys of Belchertown Robert N. Hornick,2012 During much of the twentieth century people labeled feeble minded mentally deficient and mentally retarded were often confined in large publicly funded residential institutions located on the edges of small towns and villages some distance from major population centers At the peak of their development in the late 1960s these institutions frequently called schools or homes housed 190 000 men women and children in the United States The Girls and Boys of Belchertown offers the first detailed history of an American public institution for intellectually disabled persons Robert Hornick recounts the story of the Belchertown State School in Belchertown Massachusetts from its beginnings in the 1920s to its closure in the 1990s following a scandalous expos and unprecedented court case that put the institution under direct supervision of a federal judge He draws on personal interviews private letters and other unpublished sources as well as local newspapers long out of print materials and government reports to re create what it was like to live and work at the school More broadly he gauges the impact of changing social attitudes toward intellectual disability and examines the relationship that developed over time between the school and the town where it was located What emerges is a candid and complex portrait of the Belchertown State School that neither vilifies those in charge nor excuses the injustices perpetrated on its residents but makes clear that despite the court ordered reforms of its final decades the institution needed to be closed Flight Calls John R. Nelson,2020-01-15 The paths of different birds look like double helixes flowing strands of hair and migrating serpents and they beckon with calls that have definite meanings These mysterious creatures inspire growing numbers of birders in their passionate pursuit of new species and writer John R Nelson is no exception In Flight Calls he takes readers on explorations to watch hear and know Massachusetts's hummingbirds hawks and herons along the coasts and in the woodlands meadows and marshes of Cape Ann Cape Cod the Great Marsh Mount Auburn Cemetery the Quabbin wilderness Mount Wachusett and elsewhere With style humor and a sense of wonder Nelson blends his field adventures with a history of the birding community natural and cultural history bird stories from authors such as Henry David Thoreau Emily Dickinson and Mary Oliver current scientific research and observations about the fascinating habits of birds and their admirers These essays are capped off with a plea for bird conservation in Massachusetts and beyond
