Translational Criminology in Policing The George Mason Police Research Group with David Weisburd, 2022-05-18 With contributions from international policing experts this book is the first of its kind to bring together a broad range of scholarship on translational criminology and policing Translational criminology aims to understand the obstacles and facilitators to implementing research by decisionmakers to improve effectiveness fairness and efficiency in the criminal justice system Although the emergence of the translation of knowledge from research to policy and practice has gained momentum in policing in recent years it is imperative to understand the specific mechanisms required to create collaborative structures to produce and disseminate information This progressive and cutting edge collection of articles addresses the growing interest in creating and advancing evidence based policing through translational mechanisms It describes a varied dynamic and iterative decision making process in which researchers and practitioners work simultaneously to generate and implement evidence based research Not only does this book incorporate a process for translating criminological information it offers varying perspectives on researcher practitioner partnerships around the world Translational Criminology in Policing provides practical principles to help research practitioner and policymaker audiences facilitate evidence translation and research practitioner partnerships It is essential reading for policing scholars and policymakers and may serve as a reference and textbook for courses and further research in translational criminology in policing Social Media for Government

Services Surya Nepal, Cécile Paris, Dimitrios Georgakopoulos, 2015-12-31 This book highlights state of the art research development and implementation efforts concerning social media in government services bringing together researchers and practitioners in a number of case studies It elucidates a number of significant challenges associated with social media specific to government services such as benefits and methods of assessing usability and suitability of tools technologies and platforms governance policies and frameworks opportunities for new services integrating social media with organisational business processes and specific case studies The book also highlights the range of uses and applications of social media in the government domain at both local and federal levels As such it offers a valuable resource for a broad readership including academic researchers practitioners in the IT industry developers and government policy and decision makers Detecting Doping in Sport Stephen Moston, Terry Engelberg, 2016-11-10 The book explores the changing landscape of anti doping investigations which now largely centre on the collection of intelligence about doping through processes such as surveillance interviews with witnesses and interrogation of athletes It examines why and how investigative processes hitherto typically reserved for serious crimes have been co opted by anti doping agencies into a situation where their potential for harm has received little or no critical consideration This book highlights the opportunities and threats inherent in adopting new investigative processes It is expected that many of the same problems that have engulfed forensic investigations over the last two decades such as miscarriages of justice are likely to surface in future anti doping investigations Drawing on empirical research and theory from a range of disciplines including forensic psychology criminology policing law sports management and policy studies this book fills a scholarly vacuum on the investigation of doping through non biological detection methods
