Modern World History Textbook Holt McDougal:

The New Politics of the Textbook Heather Hickman, Brad J. Porfilio, 2012-10-13 In an age of unprecedented corporate and political control over life inside of educational institutions this book provides a needed intervention to investigate how the economic and political elite use traditional artifacts in K 16 schools to perpetuate their interests at the expense of minoritized social groups The contributors provide a comprehensive examination of how textbooks the most dominant cultural force in which corporations and political leaders impact the schooling curricula shape students thoughts and behavior perpetuate power in dominant groups and trivialize social groups who are oppressed on the structural axes of race class gender sexuality and disability Several contributors also generate critical insight in how power shapes the production of textbooks and evaluate whether textbooks still perpetuate dominant Western narratives that normalize and privilege patriotism militarism consumerism White supremacy heterosexism rugged individualism technology and a positivistic conception of the world Finally the book highlights several textbooks that challenge readers to rethink their stereotypical views of the Other to reflect upon the constitutive forces causing oppression in schools and in the wider society and to reflect upon how to challenge corporate and political dominance over knowledge production A People's Curriculum for the Earth Bill Bigelow, Tim Swinehart, 2014-11-14 A People's Curriculum for the Earth is a collection of articles role plays simulations stories poems and graphics to help breathe life into teaching about the environmental crisis The book features some of the best articles from Rethinking Schools magazine alongside classroom friendly readings on climate change energy water food and pollution as well as on people who are working to make things better A People's Curriculum for the Earth has the breadth and depth of Rethinking Globalization Teaching for Justice in an Unjust World one of the most popular books we've published At a time when it's becoming increasingly obvious that life on Earth is at risk here is a resource that helps students see what's wrong and imagine solutions Praise for A People's Curriculum for the Earth To really confront the climate crisis we need to think differently build differently and teach differently A People's Curriculum for the Earth is an educator's toolkit for our times Naomi Klein author of The Shock Doctrine and This Changes Everything Capitalism vs the Climate This volume is a marvelous example of justice in ALL facets of our lives civil social educational economic and yes environmental Bravo to the Rethinking Schools team for pulling this collection together and making us think more holistically about what we mean when we talk about justice Gloria Ladson Billings Kellner Family Chair in Urban Education University of Wisconsin Madison Bigelow and Swinehart have created a critical resource for today's young people about humanity's responsibility for the Earth This book can engender the shift in perspective so needed at this point on the clock of the universe Gregory Smith Professor of Education Lewis Clark College co author with David Sobel of Place and Community based Education in Schools The Trouble with Textbooks Gary A. Tobin, Dennis R. Ybarra, 2008-07-31 School textbooks in Iran Saudi Arabia Egypt and elsewhere in the Arab and Muslim worlds are filled with anti Western and anti Israel propaganda Most readers will be shocked to discover that history and geography textbooks widely used in America's elementary and secondary classrooms contain some of the very same inaccuracies about Jews, Judaism, and Israel. Did you know that there is no record of any important Jewish contribution to the sciences? World Civilizations, Thomson Wadsworth. Or that Christianity was started by a young Palestinian named Jesus? The World, Scott Foresman, Pearson. Supplemental materials and other classroom influences are even worse. The Trouble with Textbooks exposes the poor scholarship and untruths in textbooks about Jews and Israel. The problems uncovered in this ground-breaking analysis are instructive and illustrate the need for reform in the way textbooks are developed, written, marketed, and distributed. Substitute another area how we teach American history, Western civilization, or comparative religion, and we have another equally intriguing case study. The Trouble with Textbooks shows what can go terribly wrong in discussing religion, geography, culture, or history, and in this case, all of them. The Trouble with Textbooks tells a cautionary tale for all readers, whatever their background, of how textbooks that Americans depend on to infuse young people with the values for good citizenship and to help acculturate students into the multicultural salad that is American life, instead disparage some groups and teach historical distortions. With millions of young people using these textbooks each year, the denigration of some should be a concern for all. Marking the "Invisible" Andrea M.

Hawkman, Sarah B. Shear, 2020-04-01. Substantial research has been put forth calling for the field of social studies education to engage in work dealing with the influence of race and racism within education and society. Branch, 2003; Chandler, 2015; Chandler-Husband, 2010; King-Ladson Billings, 2003; Ooka-Pang-Rivera-Ladson Billings, 2003; Woyshner-Bohan, 2012. In order to challenge the presence of racism within social studies, research must attend to the control that whiteness and white supremacy maintain within the field. This edited volume builds from these previous works to take on whiteness and white supremacy directly in social studies education. In Marking the Invisible, editors assemble original contributions from scholars working to expose whiteness and disrupt white supremacy in the field of social studies education. We argue for an articulation of whiteness within the field of social studies education in pursuit of directly challenging its influences on teaching, learning, and research. Across 27 chapters, authors call out the strategies deployed by white supremacy and acknowledge the depths by which it is used to control, manipulate, confine, and define identities, communities, citizenships, and historical narratives. This edited volume promotes the reshaping of social studies education to support the histories, experiences, and lives of Students and Teachers of Color, challenge settler colonialism, and color evasiveness, develop racial literacy, and promote justice-oriented teaching and learning. Praise for Marking the Invisible: As the theorization of race and racism continues to gain traction in social studies education, this volume offers a much-needed foundational grounding for the field. From the foreword to the epilogue, Marking the Invisible foregrounds conversations of whiteness in notions of supremacy, dominance, and rage. The chapters offer an opportunity for social studies educators to position critical theories of race, such as critical race theory, intersectionality, and settler colonialism, at the forefront of critical examinations of whiteness. Any social studies educator researcher concerned with the theorization or teaching of race should engage with this text in their work Christopher L Busey University of Florida

The Patchwork of World History in Texas High Schools Stephen Jackson, 2022-11-30 This book traces the historical development of the World History course as it has been taught in high school classrooms in Texas a populous and nationally influential state over the last hundred years Arguing that the course is a result of a patchwork of competing groups and ideas that have intersected over the past century with each new framework patched over but never completely erased or replaced the author crucially examines themes of imperialism Eurocentrism and nationalism in both textbooks and the curriculum more broadly The first part of the book presents an overview of the World History course supported by numerical analysis of textbook content and public documents while the second focuses on the depiction of non Western peoples and persistent narratives of Eurocentrism and nationalism It ultimately offers that a more global accurate and balanced curriculum is possible despite the tension between the ideas of professional world historians who often de-center the nation state in their quest for a truly global approach to the subject and the historical core rationale of state sponsored education in the United States to produce loyal citizens Offering a new conceptual understanding of how colonial themes in World History curriculum have been dealt with in the past and are now engaged with in contemporary times it provides essential context for scholars and educators with interests in the history of education curriculum studies and the teaching of World History in the United States
