

the tail region extends from the anus to the tip of the caudal fin. The entire fish (with the exception of the fins and part of the head) is covered in scales that fit together like overlapping roof shingles. These scales protect the fish and make it hydrodynamic for easy movement through the water as it swims. If you stroke the fish posterior to anterior it will feel rough like sandpaper, but if you stroke it in the opposite direction it will feel smooth.

Look for the mouth, eyes, and nostrils. The mouth has two jaw parts: an upper maxilla and a lower mandible. If you open the jaws wide enough you should be able to locate the tongue as well. The eyes are lidless, but you should be able to see a transparent shell covering each eye, much like a pair of swimming goggles.

The operculum mentioned earlier is a thin bony structure that covers the gills, which provides protection and allows the fish to pump water through the gills. The lateral line is visible on both sides of the perch and extends all the way to the tail. It consists of tiny hair-like sensory organs that can detect turbulence in the water. This allows the fish to orient itself, navigate, chase prey, and swim in schools with other fish.

The pectoral fins are found on the sides of the fish, and the pelvic fin is just posterior on the ventral side. The anal fin is also on the ventral side, just posterior to the anus and urogenital organ. The caudal fin is at the tip of the tail, and the posterior and anterior dorsal fins are found on the dorsal side along the spine. All of the perch's fins are made from a membranous structure attached to spiny rays. The rays on the anterior dorsal fin are especially spiny; be careful not to poke yourself with these

The Latest and Best of TESS, 1991 Essential Fish Biology Derek Burton, Margaret Burton, 2018 Essential Fish Biology provides an introductory overview of the functional biology of fish and how this may be affected by the widely contrasting habitat conditions within the aquatic environment It describes the recent advances in comparative animal physiology which have greatly influenced our understanding of fish function as well as generating questions that have yet to be resolved Fish taxa represent the largest number of vertebrates with over 25 000 extant species However much of our knowledge apart from taxonomy and habitat descriptions has been based on relatively few of them usually those which live in fresh water and or are of commercial interest Unfortunately there has also been a tendency to base our interpretation of fish physiology on that of mammalian systems as well as to rely on a few type species of fish This accessible textbook will redress the balance by using examples of fish from a wide range of species and habitats emphasizing diversity as well as recognizing shared attributes with other vertebrates Zoology Miller-Harley,1993-11 Zoology Toby Miller,Harley,1995-10

Immersive Learning Craig Frehlich,2020-09-10 Most people want to reach their maximum potential and the use of tools are no different Some say power is influence If this is true then virtual reality has superpowers because of its ability to make the unreal viscerally real engaging and immersive Thanks to these powers VR can influence and affect education in ways that no technology tool has in the past This book will help people understand the power and true potential of virtual reality or VR The prime directive of this book is to provide educators with a way of thinking about how to use virtual reality in education in order to reveal its true superpowers And to arm educators with several hands on lessons to get them started on implementing VR as a tool to enhance learning outcomes Ultimately the book aims to have educators clearly understand VR s role in transforming education thus reaching its maximum potential How to Dissect William Berman,1985-06 A guide for dissecting animals beginning with the earthworm and progressing to more complex anatomies such as grasshopper starfish perch and ultimately a fetal pig Includes a chapter on dissecting flowers
