Performance Metrics for Assessing Driver Distraction Gary L Rupp, 2010-12-06 This book focuses on the study of secondary task demands imposed by in vehicle devices on the driver while driving It provides a mechanism for researchers to evaluate how in vehicle devices such as navigation systems as well as other devices such as cell phones affect driver distraction and impact safety This book which features the work presented by international experts at the 4th International Driver Metrics Workshop in June 2008 offers a summary of the current state of driver metrics research Edited by workshop moderator Dr Gary L Rupp the book introduces vital information to support the design of in vehicle information and communication systems IVIS Topics covered include Driver object and event detection Peripheral detection tasks PDT Tactile based detection tasks TDT Modified Sternberg method for assessing visual and cognitive load of in vehicle tasks Modified Sternberg method for assessing peripheral detection task and lane change tests The relationship between performance metrics and crash risk Characterizing driver behaviors observed in naturalist driving studies Developing metrics from lane change test studies Relating Experimental Drive Distraction and Driving Performance Metrics to Crash Involvement - Definitions of Terms and Concepts Driver Metrics, Performance, Behaviors and States Committee, 2018 This Information Report provides functional definitions and discussions of key terms and concepts for relating the experimental evaluation of driver distraction to real world crash involvement Examples of driver distraction and driving performance metrics include those related to vehicle control object and event detection and response OEDR physiological indicators subjective assessments or combinations thereof Examples of real world crash involvement metrics include the epidemiological effect size measures of risk ratio rate ratio and odds ratio The terms and concepts defined in this document are not intended to contribute to methodologies for assessing the individual metrics within a domain these are covered in other SAE documents e g SAE J2944 and SAE technical reports For any measure chosen in one domain or the other the goal is to give general definitions of key terms and concepts that relate metrics in one domain to those in the other Issues of repeatability and validity are discussed in relation to these methods and metrics for relating the two domains However the actual specification of a particular methodology for predicting crash involvement from experimental studies is outside the scope of the present document This informational report applies to all motorized on road road vehicles including passenger cars trucks buses and powered two wheelers Driver distraction may be related to any activity that competes with the driving task and diverts attention away from activities critical for safe driving Note that the terms and concepts described herein may also be general enough to suggest methods to estimate crash involvement of real world automated vehicles from simulation metrics The intended users of the document are practitioners and researchers in the industry academia and other organizations with interest in driver distraction and driving performance assessment and road safety Driver distraction is one of the key factors underlying road crashes refer to Ascone et al 2009 NHTSA 2009 2017 and thus is a major focus for policymaking and human vehicle interface design There are many existing metrics and procedures for the experimental evaluation of driver distraction several of which have been specified in international standards and or regional guidelines e g ISO 15007 1 ISO TS 15007 2 ISO 16673 ISO 26022 ISO 17488 and SAE J2944 However it cannot be simply assumed that the effects of distraction on driving performance or driver behavior state measured with these procedures are directly indicative of real world crash involvement Thus there is a need for approaches that can be used to systematically relate experimentally measured effects of driver distraction on driving performance and driver behavior state to real world crash involvement This document provides a set of concepts and definitions of terms that can be used to characterize this relation
