and Reasoning Gavin J. Fairbairn, 2001 EBOOK: How to Win as a Final-Year Student Phil Race, 2000-07-16 Final year undergraduates face a particular set of challenges What they do in their final year is critical to their futures They must cope with revision for final exams as well as completing coursework and sometimes working on extended dissertations or projects At the same time they need to be taking strategic decisions about their future careers Many will be handling job applications and interviews Others will be going through selection processes for entry into higher degrees With greater numbers of students entering higher education representing a broader cross section of the population than ever before the challenges of the final year cause most students some measure of stress and prove unmanageable for a significant number Because of larger class sizes in most institutions the amount of real help and support from academic staff to final year students is diminishing Many final year students will have read one of the many useful general study skills texts which are available However these books do not provide the depth of assistance or the range of coverage which final year students need How to Win as a Final Year Student is the first book to deal with the specific challenges faced by final year students It is strongly recommended that students be advised to read it at the beginning of their final year Topics covered by this book include How to think strategically about what you are doing How to plan your time in order to work successfully on several things at once Tackling big dissertations and projects Revision learning from past mistakes Managing stress Exam techniques for final exams including preparing for a viva Thinking about research and higher degrees Writing a CV Making job applications Preparing for interviews and tests Translation and Ideology Sonia Cunico, Jeremy Munday, 2016-04-08 Ideology has become increasingly central to work in translation studies To date however most studies have focused on literary and religious texts thus limiting wider understanding of how ideological clashes and encounters pervade any context where power inequalities are present This special edition of The Translator deliberately focuses on ideology in the translation of a rich variety of lesser studied genres namely academic writing cultural journals legal and scientific texts political interviews advertisements language policy and European Parliament discourse in all of which translation as a social practice can be seen to shape maintain and at times also resist and challenge the asymmetrical nature of exchanges between parties engaged in or subjected to hegemonic practices The volume opens with two ground breaking papers that investigate the nature and representation of truth and knowledge in the translation of the sciences followed by two contributions which approach the issue of shifts in the translation of ideology from the standpoint of critical linguistics and critical discourse analysis using data from political speeches and interviews and from English and Korean versions of Newsweek Other contributions discuss the role that translation scholars can play in raising public awareness of the manipulative devices used in advertising the way in which potentially competing institutional and individual ideologies are negotiated in the context of interpreting in the European Union the role translation plays in shaping the politics of a multilingual nation state with reference to Belgium and the extent to which the concepts of norms and polysystems may be productive in investigating the link between translation
