Engaging with Carol Bacchi Angelique Bletsas, Chris Beasley, 2012 Carol Bacchi's scholarship is both substantial and wide ranging

Beginning her academic career as a historian in the field of English Canadian women's suffrage Bacchi has made innovative and insightful contributions to the fields of feminist theory critical policy studies and post structuralist theory One of the characteristic traits of her scholarship is her interest in revising and revisiting analytic problems from a range of perspectives This resolute analytical rigour is undoubtedly evident in Bacchi's What's the Problem Represented to be WPR approach which is perhaps her most crucial contribution to intellectual inquiry and certainly one of the most innovative analytical frameworks developed in recent times This book illuminates commemorates and builds upon Bacchi's WPR approach It outlines the trajectory of the development of the WPR approach from Bacchi's early engagements with feminist thinking as an academic in scholarly environments which were often the preserve of men towards the theoretical sophistication of an approach which requires an ongoing critical assessment of assumptions about the social world social problems policy agendas deemed to respond to those problems and the researcher's positioning This book arose out of a conference organised by the Fay Gale Centre for Research on Gender at The University of Adelaide honouring Carol Bacchi's work and is intended to make that work accessible to a range of audiences from the Introduction by Angeliques Bletsas and Chris Beasley

Personal Adornment and the Construction of Identity Hannah V. Mattson, 2021-06-09 Objects of adornment have been a subject of archaeological historical and ethnographic study for well over a century Within archaeology personal ornaments have traditionally been viewed as decorative embellishments associated with status and wealth materializations of power relations and social strategies or markers of underlying social categories such as those related to gender class and ethnic affiliation Personal Adornment and the Construction of Identity seeks to understand these artefacts not as signals of steady pre existing cultural units and relations but as important components in the active and contingent constitution of identities Drawing on contemporary scholarship on materiality and relationality in archaeological and social theory this book uses one genre of material culture items of bodily adornment to illustrate how humans and objects construct one another Providing case studies spanning 10 countries three continents and more than 9 000 years of human history the authors demonstrate the myriad and dynamic ways personal ornaments were intertwined with embodied practice and identity performativity the creation and remaking of social memories and relational collections of persons materials and practices in the past The authors careful analyses of production methods and composition curation heirlooming and reworking decorative attributes and iconography position within assemblages and depositional context illuminate the varied material and relational axes along which objects of adornment contained social value and meaning When paired with the broad temporal and geographic scope collectively represented by these studies we gain a deeper appreciation for the subtle but vital roles these items played in human lives

Hope and Insufficiency Rachel Douglas-Jones, Justin Shaffner, 2021-09-17 A process through which skills knowledge and resources are expanded capacity building remains a tantalizing and pervasive concept throughout the field of anthropology though it has received little in the way of critical analysis By exploring the concept's role in a variety of different settings including government lexicons religious organizations environmental campaigns biomedical training and fieldwork from around the globe Hope and Insufficiency seeks to question the histories assumptions intentions and enactments that have led to the ubiquity of capacity building thereby developing a much needed critical purchase on its persuasive power

Mestizo Genomics Peter Wade, Carlos López Beltrán, Eduardo Restrepo, Ricardo Ventura Santos, 2014-04-04 In genetics laboratories in Latin America scientists have been mapping the genomes of local populations seeking to locate the genetic basis of complex diseases and to trace population histories As part of their work geneticists often calculate the European African and Amerindian genetic ancestry of populations Some researchers explicitly connect their findings to questions of national identity and racial and ethnic difference bringing their research to bear on issues of politics and identity Drawing on ethnographic research in Brazil Colombia and Mexico the contributors to Mestizo Genomics explore how the concepts of race ethnicity nation and gender enter into and are affected by genomic research In Latin America national identities are often based on ideas about mestizaje race mixture rather than racial division Since mestizaje is said to involve relations between European men and indigenous or African women gender is a key factor in Latin American genomics and in the analyses in this book Also important are links between contemporary genomics and recent moves toward official multiculturalism in Brazil Colombia and Mexico One of the first studies of its kind Mestizo Genomics sheds new light on the interrelations between race identity and genomics in Latin America Contributors Adriana D az del Castillo H Roosbelinda C rdenas Vivette Garc a Deister Verlan Valle Gaspar Neto Michael Kent Carlos L pez Beltr n Mar a Fernanda Olarte Sierra Eduardo Restrepo Mariana Rios Sandoval Ernesto Schwartz Mar n Ricardo Ventura Santos Peter Wade

Disability and Technology Alan Roulstone,2016-06-11 This book brings together formally disparate literatures and debates on disability and technology in a way that captures the complex interplay between the two Drawing on disability studies technology studies and clinical studies the book argues that interdisciplinary insights together provide a more nuanced and less stylized picture of the benefits and barriers in disability and technology Drawing on a breadth of empirical studies from across the globe a picture emerges of the complex and multi directional interplay of technology and disability Technology is neither inherently enabling or disabling but fundamentally shaped by the social dynamics that shape their design use and impact
