Secularism Confronts Islam:

Secularism Confronts Islam Olivier Roy, 2007-07-06 The denunciation of fundamentalism in France embodied in the law against the veil and the deportation of imams has shifted into a systematic attack on all Muslims and Islam. This hostility is rooted in the belief that Islam cannot be integrated into French and consequently secular and liberal society. However, as Olivier Roy makes clear in this book, Muslim intellectuals have made it possible for Muslims to live concretely in a secularized world while maintaining the identity of a true believer. They have formulated a language that recognizes two spaces: that of religion and that of secular society. Western society is unable to recognize this process, Roy argues, because of a cultural bias that assumes religious practice is embedded within a specific traditional culture that must be either erased entirely or forced to coexist in a neutral multicultural space. Instead, Roy shows that new forms of religiosity, such as Islamic fundamentalism and Christian evangelicalism, have come to thrive in post-traditional secular contexts precisely because they remain detached from any cultural background. In recognizing this, Roy recasts the debate concerning Islam and democracy. Analyzing the French case in particular, in which the tension between Islam and the conception of Western secularism is exacerbated, Roy makes important distinctions between Arab and non-Arab Muslims, hegemony and tolerance, and the role of the umma and the sharia in Muslim religious life. He pits Muslim religious revivalism against similar movements in the West, such as evangelical Protestantism and Jehovah's Witnesses, and refutes the myth of a single Muslim community by detailing different groups and their inability to overcome their differences. Roy's rare portrait of the realities of immigrant Muslim life offers a necessary alternative to the popular specter of an Islamic threat. Supporting his arguments with his extensive research on Islamic history, sociology, and politics, Roy brilliantly demonstrates the limits of our understanding of contemporary Islamic religious practice in the West and the role of Islam as a screen onto which Western societies project their own identity crisis.

Secularism Confronts Islam, 2007 Secularism, Theology and Islam Jennifer Elisa Veninga, 2014-03-27 Secularism, Theology and Islam offers a uniquely theological analysis of the historic Danish cartoon crisis of 2005-2006, in which the publication of twelve images of the Prophet Muhammad in the Danish newspaper Jyllands Posten ignited violent global protests. The crisis represents a politically, culturally, and religiously important event of the early 21st century, and Jennifer Veninga explores the important question of why the cartoons were published in Denmark, when they were, and why this matters to the larger global community. The book outlines three main interpretations of the affair as they were framed by international news media: as an issue exclusively about freedom of speech as related to a clash of civilizations, or exclusively as a matter of international politics. Whilst these are important, the author argues that the crisis was far more complex than any of these interpretations suggest and argues that an alternative methodology can be found in philosopher Charles Taylor's concept of the social imaginary, which refers to the shared norms, expectations, images, and narratives of a community or nation that inform many of its shared practices. Describing the Danish social imaginary as a paradox of Christianity and secularism Veninga explains why the new presence of Islam has been perceived as such a threat to Danish identity The author also maintains that despite tendencies toward exclusion the Danish imaginary also supports a move toward authentic religious pluralism Understanding the Danish cartoon crisis is important for any community struggling with new religious diversity especially those with largely secular identities Furthermore the method used to examine the crisis provides a theological analytical framework applicable to a wide variety of contemporary social and political movements and issues

Secularism Confronts Islamism Mohammad Affan,2022-01-31 This book provides in depth examination of the recent confrontation between Islamists and secularists in Egypt and Tunisia Presenting a new approach to understand Islamism and secularism the research addresses the variables that could affect the outcome of transitional negotiations The secularist Islamist conflict proved to be a major hindrance for democratisation and a main source of political instability in the Middle East During the Arab Spring disputes between both political trends sparked shortly after getting rid of their common enemy the autocratic rulers First they disagreed on how to lead the transitional period Then polarisation grew deeper with the political competition in the parliamentary and presidential elections and the ideological disagreements during the drafting of the constitution Eventually this conflict put Tunisia at a verge of civil strife in the summer of 2013 and led to collapse of the transitional process in Egypt after the military coup Examining the causes of the conflict between the secularists and the Islamists during the transitional period the work provides new insights from the Arab Spring experience Updating the transition literature the book is a key resource to academics and students interested in democratization theory and Middle East politics

Islam, Secularism, and Liberal Democracy Nader Hashemi,2009-04-08 Islam s relationship to liberal democratic politics has emerged as one of the most pressing and contentious issues in international affairs In Islam Secularism and Liberal Democracy Nader Hashemi challenges the widely held belief among social scientists that religious politics and liberal democratic development are structurally incompatible This book argues for a rethinking of democratic theory so that it incorporates the variable of religion in the development of liberal democracy In the process it proves that an indigenous theory of Muslim secularism is not only possible but is a necessary requirement for the advancement of liberal democracy in Muslim societies

A Secular Europe: Law and Religion in the European Constitutional Landscape Lorenzo Zucca,2012-10-11 How to accommodate diverse religious practices and laws within a secular framework is one of the most pressing and controversial problems facing contemporary European public order In this provocative contribution to the subject Lorenzo Zucca argues that traditional models of secularism focusing on the relationship of state and church are out dated and that only by embracing a new picture of what secularism means can Europe move forward in the public reconciliation of its religious diversity The book develops a new model of secularism suitable for Europe as a whole The new model of secularism is concerned with the way in which modern secular states deal with the presence of diversity in the society This new conception of secularism is more suited to the European Union whose overall aim is to promote a stable peaceful and unified economic and political space starting from a wide range of different national experiences and perspectives The new conception of secularism is also more suited for the Council of Europe at large and in particular the European Court of Human Rights which faces growing demands for the recognition of freedom of religion in European states The new model does not defend secularism as an ideological position but aims to present secularism as our common constitutional tradition as well as the basis for our common constitutional future

Secularism and Islam in Bangladesh Abdul Wohab, 2023-10-13 Secularism and Islam in Bangladesh comprehensively analyses the syncretistic form of Bengali Islam and its relationship with secularism in Bangladesh from pre British to contemporary times It focuses on the importance of understanding the dynamics between religion and secularism within specific cultural contexts The author draws upon historical sociological and political literature Bangladeshi electoral results newspaper reports and elite interviews with political commentators and offers a rich historical and empirical analysis Arguing that extremist interpretations of Islam which aim to establish a theocratic state have not been able to influence the pluralistic religious and cultural life of Bangladesh substantially the book shows that religious and cultural pluralism will continue to thrive despite the apparent threat posed by increasing religiosity among Bangladeshi Muslims This book is a timely and significant contribution to the discourse on secularism and Islam with relevance beyond Bangladesh and the wider Islamic world It will appeal to scholars and researchers working in the fields of South Asian studies Asian religions and the sociology of religion

Secularism and Religion-Making Markus Dressler, Arvind Mandair, 2011-10-03 This book investigates the universalization of religious and secular knowledges that emerged in their particular modern forms originally in the Christian West It is an attempt to explore the epistemological grounds and political implications of the formation and codependency of secular and religious discourses and practices

British Secularism and Religion Yahya Birt, Ataulah Siddiqui, Dilwar Hussain, 2016-07-04 This book provides an in depth deliberation upon the now unsettled relationship between religion and politics in contemporary Britain with some emphasis upon the case of Islam which is now at the centre of the debate Combining theological reflections and academic and policy perspectives this topical collection includes contributions from Ted Cantle Sunder Katwala Maleiha Malik and Tariq Modood among others

Religion, Culture, and the State Howard Adelman, Pierre Anctil, 2011-04-09 The Canadian principle of reasonable accommodation demands that the cultural majority make certain concessions to the needs of minority groups if these concessions will not cause undue hardship This principle has caused much debate in Quebec particularly over issues of language Muslim head coverings and religious symbols such as the kirpan traditional Sikh dagger In 2007 Quebec Premier Jean Charest commissioned historian and sociologist Gérard Bouchard and philosopher and political scientist Charles Taylor to co chair a commission that would investigate the limits of reasonable accommodation in that province Religion Culture and the State addresses reasonable accommodation from legal political and anthropological perspectives Using the 2008 Bouchard Taylor Report as their point of departure the contributors contextualize the English and French Canadian experiences of multiculturalism and diversity through socio historical analysis political philosophy and practical comparisons to other jurisdictions Timely and engaging Religion Culture and the State is a valuable resource in the discussion of religious pluralism in Canadian society
