Rebuilding A Village:

Rebuilding the Ancestral Village Khun Eng Kuah, 2022-05-06 Originally published in 2000 this second edition was first published in 2010 This is a discussion of the relationship between one group of Singapore Chinese and their ancestral village in Fujian in China It explores the various reasons why the Singapore Chinese continue to want to maintain ties with their ancestral village and how they go about reproducing Chinese culture in the form of ancestor worship and religion in the village milieu in China It further explores the reasons why the Singapore Chinese feel morally obliged to assist their ancestral village in village reconstruction providing financial contributions to infrastructure development such as the buildings of roads bridges schools hospitals and to help with small scale industrial and retail activities Related to this is how the village cadres and teenagers through various strategies managed to encourage the Singapore Chinese to revisit their ancestral village and help with village reconstruction thereby creating a moral economy The main argument here concerns the desire of the Singapore Chinese to maintain a cultural identity and lineage continuity with their ancestral home Ethnographically this anthropological study examines two groups of Chinese separated by historical and geographical space and their coming together to re establish their cultural identity through various cultural and economic activities At the theoretical level it seeks to add a new dimension to the study of Chinese transnationalism and diaspora studies Deserted

Development (vol.2) Magali Bodart, Arnaud Evrard, 2011-07 This book of Proceedings presents the latest thinking and research in the rapidly evolving world of architecture and sustainable development through 255 selected papers by authors coming from over 60 countries The Anatomy of the Village Thomas Sharp, 2013-07-24 Thomas Sharp was a key figure in mid C20 British planning whose renown stems from two periods in his career First he came to attention as a polemical writer in the 1930s on planning issues including as a virulent opponent of garden cities His prose tempered over time and this phase perhaps culminated in Town Planning first published in 1940 and reputed to have sold over 250 000 copies Subsequently the plans he produced for historic towns in the 1940s such as Oxford were very well known and were influential in developing ideas of townscape Started as an official manual on village planning The Anatomy of the Village followed on from the Scott Report for which Sharp had been one of the Secretaries When the Ministry decided not to proceed with the publication Sharp himself published it in 1946 It became one of Sharp s best known works with lucid prose and generous illustration by photograph and beautiful line drawings of village plans The aim of The Anatomy of the Village was to set out the main principles of village planning especially in relation to physical design Anatomy became a key text in thinking about villages in the post war period a period when there was great concern that settlements should develop in more sensitive ways than inter war ribbon and suburban development patterns The problems of poor quality development unrelated to settlement form was to continue to stimulate books such as Lionel Brett's Landscape in Distress and campaigns from the Architectural Review Reading the text today it still has much to offer while some of its assumptions about the level of services a village might support clearly belong to another era its beautiful and simple typological analyses of village form continue to be of relevance authors explore diverse experiences and assessments of the reconstruction. It considers the importance of the political and religious settings of the reconstruction, the roles of communities and local non government organisations and the challenges faced by Indonesian and international agencies. Change Of China's Rural Community: A Case Study Of Zhejiang's Jianshanxia Village Dan Mao, 2019-11-07. This book analyzes the industrialization process of Jianshanxia, a mountain village in Zhejiang Province and its organizational changes since China's reform and opening up. As a small mountain village far from the city, Jianshanxia Village used its contingent funds to open up a factory collectively owned by the village. At that time, it was common for city dwellers to run a factory in cities, but this was still rare in rural areas. The book analyzes how the village could quickly claim a large market share of the domestic electric mosquito incense market. The successful industrialization of the village increased the income of the villagers, improved its appearance and enhanced its collective economic strength. In retrospect, the transformation of this village was a miracle and a typical example of industrialization of township enterprises in China.
