Programmed Visions Software And Memory Software Studies Paperback January 11 2013:

Memory in motion Lundemo Trond, Rossaak Eivind, Blom Ina, 2016-11-02 Sociology has long had approaches to describing the ways in which social memory is enacted through ritual language art architecture and institutions phenomena whose persistence over time and capacity for a shared storage of the past was set in contrast to fleeting individual memory But the question of how new media changes that equation is very much up in the air How in the age of digital computing instant updating and interconnection in real time is social memory created and enacted This collection offers a set of essays that discuss the new technology of memory from a variety of perspectives that explicitly investigate their impact on the very concept of the social

Software Takes Command Lev Manovich, 2013-07-04 Offers the first look at the aesthetics of contemporary design from the theoretical perspectives of media theory and software studies

Computerworld, 1983-12-12 For more than 40 years Computerworld has been the leading source of technology news and information for IT influencers worldwide Computerworld's award winning Web site Computerworld.com twice monthly publication focused conference series and custom research form the hub of the world's largest global IT media network

Programmed Visions Wendy Hui Kyong Chun, 2013-01-11 A theoretical examination of the surprising emergence of software as a guiding metaphor for our neoliberal world New media thrives on cycles of obsolescence and renewal from celebrations of cyber everything to Y2K from the dot com bust to the next big things mobile mobs Web 3.0 cloud computing In Programmed Visions Wendy Hui Kyong Chun argues that these cycles result in part from the ways in which new media encapsulates a logic of programmability New media proliferates programmed visions which seek to shape and predict even embody a future based on past data These programmed visions have also made computers based on metaphor metaphors for metaphor itself for a general logic of substitutability Chun argues that the clarity offered by software as metaphor should make us pause because software also engenders a profound sense of ignorance who knows what lurks behind our smiling interfaces behind the objects we click and manipulate The combination of what can be seen and not seen known knowable and not known its separation of interface from algorithm and software from hardware makes it a powerful metaphor for everything we believe is invisible yet generates visible logical effects from genetics to the invisible hand of the market from ideology to culture

Asians Wear Clothes on the Internet Minh-Ha T. Pham, 2015-11-13 In the first ever book devoted to a critical investigation of the personal style blogosphere Minh Ha T Pham examines the phenomenal rise of elite Asian bloggers who have made a career of posting photographs of themselves wearing clothes on the Internet Pham understands their online activities as taste work practices that generate myriad forms of capital for superbloggers and the brands they feature A multifaceted and detailed analysis Asians Wear Clothes on the Internet addresses questions concerning the status and meaning of Asian taste in the early twenty first century the kinds of cultural and economic work Asian tastes do and the fashion public and industry's appetite for certain kinds of racialized eliteness Situating blogging within the historical context of gendered and racialized fashion work while being attentive to the broader cultural technological and economic shifts in global consumer capitalism Asians Wear Clothes on the Internet has profound implications for understanding the changing and enduring dynamics of race gender and class in shaping some of the most popular work practices and spaces of the digital fashion media economy

After Disruption Trevor Owens, 2024-05-06 The digital age is burning out our most precious resources and the future of the past is at stake In After Disruption A Future for Cultural Memory Trevor Owens warns that our institutions of cultural memory libraries archives museums humanities departments research institutes and more have been disrupted and largely not for the better He calls for memory workers and memory institutions to take back control of envisioning the future of memory from management consultants and tech sector evangelists After Disruption posits that we are no longer planning for a digital future but instead living in a digital present In this context Owens asks how we plan for and develop a more just sustainable and healthy future for cultural memory The first half of the book draws on critical scholarship on the history of technology and business to document and expose the sources of tech startup ideologies and their pernicious results revealing that we need powerful and compelling counter frameworks and values to replace these ideologies The second half of the book makes the case for the centrality of maintenance care and repair as interrelated frameworks to build a better future in which libraries archives and museums can thrive as sites of belonging and connection through collections

Technologies of Vision Steve F Anderson, 2017-10-20 An investigation of the computational turn in visual culture centered on the entangled politics and pleasures of data and images If the twentieth century was tyrannized by images then the twenty first is ruled by data In Technologies of Vision Steve Anderson argues that visual culture and the methods developed to study it have much to teach us about today's digital culture but first we must examine the historically entangled relationship between data and images Anderson starts from the supposition that there is no great divide separating pre and post digital culture Rather than creating an insular field of new and inaccessible discourse he argues it is more productive to imagine that studying the digital is coextensive with critical models especially the politics of seeing and knowing developed for understanding the visual Anderson's investigation takes on an eclectic array of examples ranging from virtual reality culture analytics and software art to technologies for computer vision face recognition and photogrammetry Mixing media archaeology with software studies Anderson mines the history of technology for insight into both the politics of data and the pleasures of algorithms He proposes a taxonomy of modes that describe the functional relationship between data and images in the domains of space surveillance and data visualization At stake in all three are tensions between the totalizing logic of data and the unruly chaos of images

Media-N Spring 2015 The Aesthetics of Erasure New Media Caucus, 2015-05-06 Against the backdrop of a longstanding practice of erasure both in artistic and critical work co guest editors Paul Benzon and Sarah Sweeney take up challenging questions related to the aesthetics of erasure today in the digital era They investigate new meanings and the relevance of said practice within twenty first century contemporary contexts typically defined by digital

The Digital Humanist Domenico Fiormonte, Teresa Numerico, Francesca Tomasi, 2015 This book offers a critical introduction to the core technologies underlying the Internet from a humanistic perspective It provides a cultural critique of computing technologies by exploring the history of computing and examining issues related to writing representing archiving and searching The book raises awareness of and calls for the digital humanities to address the challenges posed by the linguistic and cultural divides in computing the clash between communication and control and the biases inherent in networked technologies A common problem with publications in the Digital Humanities is the dominance of the Anglo American perspective While seeking to take a broader view the book attempts to show how cultural bias can become an obstacle to innovation both in the methodology and practice of the Digital Humanities Its central point is that no technological instrument is culturally unbiased and that all too often the geography that underlies technology coincides with the social and economic interests of its producers The alternative proposed in the book is one of a world in which variation contamination and decentralization are essential instruments for the production and transmission of digital knowledge It is thus necessary not only to have spaces where DH scholars can interact such as international conferences THATCamps forums and mailing lists but also a genuine sharing of technological know how and experience This is a truly exceptional work on the subject of the digital Students and scholars new to the field of digital humanities will find in this book a gentle introduction to the field which I cannot but think would be good and perhaps even inspirational for them Its history of the development of machines and programs and communities bent on using computers to advance science and research merely sets the stage for an insightful analysis of the role of the digital in the way both scholars and everyday people communicate and conceive of themselves and others in written forms from treatises to credit card transactions Peter Shillingsburg

The Digital Humanist is not simply a translation of the Italian book L'umanista digitale il Mulino 2010 but a new version tailored to an international audience through the improvement and expansion of the sections on social cultural and ethical problems of the most widely used methodologies resources and applications
