The Index ... Francis Ellington Abbot, William James Potter, Benjamin Franklin Underwood, 1871 Love and its Critics Michael Bryson, Arpi Movsesian, 2017-07-10 This book is a history of love and the challenge love offers to the laws and customs of its times and places as told through poetry from the Song of Songs to John Milton's Paradise Lost. It is also an account of the critical reception afforded to such literature and the ways in which criticism has attempted to stifle this challenge. Bryson and Movsesian argue that the poetry they explore celebrates and reinvents the love the troubadour poets of the eleventh and twelfth centuries called fin amor: love as an end in itself, mutual and freely chosen, even in the face of social, religious, or political retribution. Neither eros nor agape, neither exclusively of the body nor solely of the spirit, this love is a middle path. Alongside this tradition has grown a critical movement that employs a hermeneutics of suspicion. In Paul Ricoeur's phrase, to claim that passionate love poetry is not what it seems and should be properly understood as worship of God, subordination to Empire, or an entanglement with the structures of language itself, in short, the very things it resists. The book engages with some of the seminal literature of the Western canon, including the Bible, the poetry of Ovid, and works by English authors such as William Shakespeare and John Donne, and with criticism that stretches from the earliest readings of the Song of Songs to contemporary academic literature. Lively and enjoyable in its style, it attempts to restore a sense of pleasure to the reading of poetry and to puncture critical insistence that literature must be outwitted. It will be of value to professional, graduate, and advanced undergraduate scholars of literature and to the educated general reader interested in treatments of love in poetry throughout history.

Reading Mystery Science Theater 3000 Shelley S. Rees, 2013-05-09. First broadcast in the not too distant past on a television station in Minnesota, Mystery Science Theater 3000 soon grew out of its humble beginnings and found a new home on cable television. This simple show about a man and two robots forced to watch bad movies became a cult classic, and episodes of the series continue to be packaged in DVD collections to this day. Before its final run, the show received Emmy nominations and a Peabody award for television excellence, and in 2007 Time magazine declared MST3K one of The 100 Best Shows of All Time. In Reading Mystery Science Theater 3000: Critical Approaches, Shelley S. Rees presents a collection of essays that examines the complex relationship between narrative and audience constructed by this baffling but beloved television show. Invoking literary theory, cultural criticism, pedagogy, feminist criticism, humor theory, rhetorical analysis, and film and media studies, these essays affirm the show's narrative and rhetorical intricacy. The first section, "Rhetoric and the Empowered Audience," addresses MST3K's function as an exercise in rhetorical resistance. Part Two, "Mystery Science Theater 3000 and Genre," analyzes MST3K through distinct generic traditions, including humor studies, traditional science fiction tropes, and the B movie. Finally, the third section addresses postmodern and intertextual readings of the show. By providing an academic treatment of an iconic television phenomenon, these essays argue that Mystery Science Theater 3000 is worthy of serious scholarly attention. Though aimed at a discerning readership of academics, this collection will also appeal to the intellectual nature of the show's well-educated audience.
