Reading 1 Corinthians Timothy A. Brookins, 2020 As a letter directed not to a universal much less a modern audience but to a specific church in a specific place with a specific set of problems 1 Corinthians requires the interpreter to take careful consideration of the letter's ancient milieu and the circumstances that precipitated its composition This commentary aims to offer a culturally informed interpretation of the letter in light of a hypothetical reconstruction of the problems that lay behind it In offering such an interpretation the commentary offers not a word by word analysis but broad exposition of the text focused on the structure of Paul's argument in each of the letter's main units Preliminary to interpretation it is necessary to consider certain background issues relating to the historical context in which the letter was written the identity of the audience and author and the unique features of the letter as a literary composition

Exclusion and Judgment in Fellowship Meals Jamir Lanuwabang, 2017-03-31 In Exclusion and Judgment in Fellowship Meals Jamir seeks to demonstrate that the tradition of fellowship meals in the ancient world form the background against which the Lord's Supper must be understood Similarly the basis of Paul's response to the situation in Corinth and his theology of the Lord's Supper is to be found in these traditions The role of the fellowship meal in Greco Roman and Jewish culture indicate that it was an important institution that played a pivotal role in the functioning of society Judgment was an integral part of the fellowship meal traditions and it made such meal practices all the more significant in ancient cultures For example Jamir reveals that social economic factors were only part of the problem in Corinth where differences in ideology were the underlying cause of divisions in the church Paul's response to the problem shows that he upheld the fellowship meal traditions linking sickness and death with the abuse of the Lord's Supper The concept of judgment in the Lord's Supper while based on the fellowship meal traditions has been redefined in the light of the Gospel tradition
