Reading Graphs Maps Trees Critical Responses To Franco Moretti:

Reading Graphs, Maps, and Trees Jonathan Goodwin, John Holbo, 2011-01-14 Franco Moretti's Graphs Maps Trees Abstract Models for Literary History is one of the most provocative recent works of literary history. The present volume collects generalist and specialist academic and nonacademic responses by statisticians, philosophers, historians, literary scholars, and others. And Moretti's responses to these responses.

Graphs, Maps, Trees Franco Moretti, 2007-09-17 In this groundbreaking book, Franco Moretti argues that literature scholars should stop reading books and start counting, graphing, and mapping them instead. In place of the traditionally selective literary canon of a few hundred texts, Moretti offers charts, maps, and time lines, developing the idea of distant reading into a full-blown experiment in literary historiography in which the canon disappears into the larger literary system. Charting entire genres—the epistolary, the gothic, and the historical novel—as well as the literary output of countries such as Japan, Italy, Spain, and Nigeria, he shows how literary history looks significantly different from what is commonly supposed and how the concept of aesthetic form can be radically redefined.

Theory in the "Post" Era Christian Moraru, Andrei Terian, Alexandru Matei, 2021-08-26 Shortlisted for the AATSEEL 2022 Award for Best Edited Multi-Author Scholarly Volume. AATSEEL is The American Association of Teachers of Slavic and East European Languages. Theory in the Post Era brings together the work and perspectives of a group of Romanian theorists who discuss the morphings of contemporary theory in what the editors call the post era. Since the Cold War's end and especially in the third millennium, theorists have been exploring the aftermath and sometimes just the after of whole paradigms: the crisis or passing of anthropocentrism, the twilight of an entire ontological and cultural condition, as well as the corresponding rise of an antagonist model of an anti-meta or neo-alternative, with examples ranging from posthumanism and post-postmodernism to post-aesthetics, postanalog interpretation or digicriticism, post-presentism, post-memory, post- or neo-critique, and so forth. It is no coincidence the contributors to this volume argue that this post-moment is also a time when theory is practiced as a world genre. If theory has always been a worlded enterprise, a quintessentially communal, cross-cultural and international project, this is truer at present than ever. Perhaps more than other humanist constituencies, today's theorists work and belong in a theory commons that is transnational, if still uneven, economically, politically, and otherwise. Theory in the Post Era reports the results of Romanian theory experiments that join efforts made in other places to foster a theory for the post age.

Mapping Across Academia Stanley D. Brunn, Martin Dodge, 2017-02-10 This book addresses the role and importance of space in the respective fields of the social sciences and the humanities. It discusses how map representations and mapping processes can inform ongoing intellectual debates or open new avenues for scholarly inquiry within and across disciplines, including a wide array of significant developments in spatial processes, including the Internet, global positioning system, GPS, affordable digital photography, and mobile technologies. Last but not least, it reviews and assesses recent research challenges across disciplines that enhance our understanding of spatial processes and mapping at scales ranging from the molecular to the galactic Distant Readings Matt Erlin, Lynne Tatlock, 2014 Explores the concept of distant reading and its application to the analysis of nineteenth century German literature and culture drawing on a range of approaches from the emerging digital humanities field In nineteenth century Germany breakthroughs in printing technology and an increasingly literate populace led to an unprecedented print production boom that has long presented scholars with a challenge how to read it all This anthology seeks new answers to the scholarly quandary of the abundance of text Responding to Franco Moretti's call for distant reading and modeling a range of innovative approaches to literary historical analysis informed by the burgeoning field of digital humanities it asks what happens when we shift our focus from the one to the many from the work to the network The thirteen essays in this volume explore the evolving concept of distant reading and its application to the analysis of German literature and culture in the long nineteenth century The contributors consider how new digital technologies enable both the testing of hypotheses and the discovery of patterns and trends as well as how distant and traditional close reading can complement each another in hybrid models of analysis that maintain careful attention to detail but also make calculation enumeration and empirical description critical elements of interpretation Contributors Kirsten Belgum Tobias Boes Matt Erlin Fotis Jannidis and Gerhard Lauer Lutz Koepnick Todd Kontje Peter M McIsaac Katja Mellmann Nicolas Pethes Andrew Piper and Mark Algee Hewitt Allen Beye Riddell Lynne Tatlock Paul A Youngman and Ted Carmichael Matt Erlin is Professor of German and Chair of the Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures and Lynne Tatlock is Hortense and Tobias Lewin Distinguished Professor in the Humanities both at Washington University in St Louis Shaping the Canons of Ancient Greek Historiography Ivan Matijašić, 2018-08-06 The main focus of this book is the ancient formation and development of the canons of Greek historiography It takes a fresh look on the modern debate on canonical literature and deals with Greek historiographical traditions in the works of ancient rhetors and literary critics Writings on historiography by Cicero Quintilian and Dionysius of Halicarnassus are chiefly taken into account to explore the canons of Greek historians in Hellenistic and Roman Imperial Ages Essential in canon formation was the concept of classicism which took shape in the Age of Augustus but whose earlier developments can be traced back to Isocrates a model rhetor according to Dionysius at the end of the 1st century BC The analysis explores also late antique authors of school treatises and progymnasmata a field where historiography had a pedagogical function Previous studies on canonical literature have rarely considered historiography This book examines not only the works of ancient historians and their legacy but also the relationship between historiography literary criticism and the rhetorical tradition A World of Fiction Katherine Bode, 2018-07-05 Proposes a new basis for data rich literary history Football in Fiction Lee McGowan, 2019-09-26 Football in Fiction represents the most comprehensive historical mapping and analysis of novels related to association football soccer It offers a theoretically informed field guide a scholarly cartography of football fiction's uncertain and until now only partially explored terrain Combining an extensive search for texts with up to date academic research journals surveys catalogues and reviews the book demonstrates a topographic perspective of the field one that captures and establishes its breadth depth and distinctive identity The book uses and adapts two distinct reading models of abstraction in conjunction with closer textual analyses Together they assist in realising a set of demonstrable conventions outline a taxonomy of fictive types establish the genre s current state of play and advance the football novel as a form with its own literary history and traditions This book is a valuable resource for those studying and researching in the areas of the social and cultural aspects of football sports fiction sports writing creative writing and literary and genre studies

Furthermore related industry professionals will find this a fascinating read particularly football writers fans of the sport and those interested in sports history and cultural phenomena Distant Horizons Ted Underwood,2019-02-14 Just as a traveler crossing a continent won t sense the curvature of the earth one lifetime of reading can t grasp the largest patterns organizing literary history This is the guiding premise behind Distant Horizons which uses the scope of data newly available to us through digital libraries to tackle previously elusive questions about literature Ted Underwood shows how digital archives and statistical tools rather than reducing words to numbers as is often feared can deepen our understanding of issues that have always been central to humanistic inquiry Without denying the usefulness of time honored approaches like close reading narratology or genre studies Underwood argues that we also need to read the larger arcs of literary change that have remained hidden from us by their sheer scale Using both close and distant reading to trace the differentiation of genres transformation of gender roles and surprising persistence of aesthetic judgment Underwood shows how digital methods can bring into focus the larger landscape of literary history and add to the beauty and complexity we value in literature Digital Humanities and Film Studies Adelheid Heftberger,2019-01-02 This book highlights the quantitative methods of data mining and information visualization and explores their use in relation to the films and writings of the Russian director Dziga Vertov The theoretical basis of the work harkens back to the time when a group of Russian artists and scholars known as the formalists developed new concepts of how art could be studied and measured This book brings those ideas to the digital age One of the central questions the book intends to address is How can hypothetical notions in film studies be supported or falsified using empirical data and statistical tools The first stage involves manual and computer assisted annotation of the films leading to the production of empirical data which is then used for statistical analysis but more importantly for the development of visualizations Studies of this type furthermore shed light on the field of visual presentation of time based processes an area which has its origin in the Russian formalist sphere of the 1920s and which has recently gained new relevance due to technological advances and new possibilities for computer assisted analysis of large and complex data sets In order to reach a profound understanding of Vertov and his films the manual or computer assisted data analysis must be combined with film historical knowledge and a study of primary sources In addition the status of the surviving film materials and the precise analysis of these materials combined with knowledge of historical film technology
