Memo Of Accounting Final Exam November 2013:

Banking's Final Exam Morris Goldstein,2017-05-30 Spurred by the success of the first stress test of US banks toward the end of the global economic crisis in 2009 stress testing of large financial institutions has become the cornerstone of banking supervision worldwide The aim of the tests is to determine which banks are adequately capitalized under severe economic shocks and to order corrective measures for those that are vulnerable In Banking s Final Exam one of the world s leading experts on banking regulation concludes that the tests administered on both sides of the Atlantic suffer from fundamental weaknesses leading to a false sense of reassurance about the safety and soundness of the banking system Some weaknesses can be corrected within the existing bank capital regime but others will require bold reforms including higher minimum capital requirements for the largest and most systemically important banks The banking industry is likely to resist these reforms but this book explains why their objections do not hold water Wiley CPA Exam Review 2010, Financial Accounting and Reporting Patrick R. Authorised Representative AFSL AR licensing model as specified in the Commonwealth Corporations Act 2001 The book rectifies the deficiency in scholarly attention to this matter by developing a new conceptualised framework for the financial planning discipline It takes into account theories in agency legislation legitimacy and the independent individual regulatory regimes in other professions thereafter integrating this framework with the financial planning theory to examine the legitimacy or what was found to be the illegitimacy of licensing advisers via multiple third party conflicted commercially oriented licensees This book makes a very useful reference to understanding financial planning licencing model in Australia

Monetary and Capital Markets Department,2014-10-15 SUMMARY KEY FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS The Republic of Korea has a moderate level of compliance with the Basel Core Principles for Effective Banking Supervision BCP Building upon the 2003 FSAP recommendations the authorities have taken resolute steps to strengthen the regulation and supervision of the banking sector However the assessment identified gaps that need to be addressed and although the Republic of Korea counts with a strong albeit overly complex regulatory framework and with thorough supervisory practices a number of areas require attention so that the Republic of Korea can meet the highest standards of supervisory effectiveness Those areas include broader powers to apply minimum capital requirements to individual banks full implementation of Pillar 2 and ICAAP and a more comprehensive approach to conglomerates The application of Basel II to Financial Holding Companies FHCs would complement the transition to group supervision which began through the introduction of the FHC Act Despite the deficiencies identified in the assessment the current supervisory structure has been reasonably effective and the overall vulnerability of the Korean banking system has diminished since the 2008 crisis with stronger capitalization across the sector Supervision of the banks is structured around sound off site supervision techniques and onsite inspections Strengths lie in sophisticated offsite monitoring capabilities and an extensive onsite capability The FSC FSS collects and analyzes a broad suite of information including detailed financial and management information The supervisory approach relies heavily on off site monitoring and notifications of exceptions which are supplemented by biannual full scope on site examinations The existence of multiple points of responsibility where subject matter experts are responsible for different areas of surveillance poses challenges of coordination and to derive an overall understanding risk to an institution The Republic of Korea is one of the first countries to be assessed under the revised Basel Core Principles BCP issued by the Basel Committee in September 2012 Like other countries being assessed under the new methodology the Republic of Korea has agreed to be assessed and rated not only on the essential criteria but also on the additional criteria It is important to note that since last assessment conducted in 2003 the bar of the standards has been raised twice by the BCBS the BCP methodology was revised in 2006 and again in 2012 This assessment consequently is not comparable with the previous assessment and as prescribed by its methodology should not be compared or across countries Within the revised BCP methodology more is expected of supervision and regulation and much of what was considered desirable is now considered essential with the lessons of crisis and evolution of financial markets and international standards The assessment also brings a new relevance to observed implementation and practices
