1501-1722 is one of the most important in the history of Persian culture celebrated especially for its architecture and art including miniature paintings that frequently represent singers and instrumentalists. Their presence reflects a sophisticated tradition of music making that was an integral part of court life yet it is one that remains little known for the musicological literature of the period is rather thin. There is however a significant exception: the text presented and analysed here is a hitherto unpublished and anonymous theoretical work probably of the middle of the sixteenth century. With a Sufi background inspiring the use of the nay as a tool of theoretical demonstration it is exceptional in presenting descriptive accounts of the modes then in use and suggesting how these might be arranged in complex sequences. As it also gives an account of the corpus of rhythmic cycles it provides a unique insight into the basic structures of art music during the first century of Safavid rule.

Iranian Music and Popular Entertainment GJ Breyley, Sasan Fatemi, 2015-11-19. The word motreb finds its roots in the Arabic verb taraba meaning to make happy. Originally denoting all musicians in Iran, motrebi came to be associated pejoratively with the cheerful vulgarity of the lowbrow entertainer. In Iranian Music and Popular Entertainment GJ Breyley and Sasan Fatemi examine the historically overlooked motrebi milieu with its marginalized characters from luti to gardan kolof and mashti as well as the tenacity of motreb who continued their careers against all odds. They then turn to losanjelesi, the most pervasive form of Iranian popular music that developed as motrebi declined and related musical forms in Iran and its diasporic popular cultural centre Los Angeles. For the first time in English the book makes available musical transcriptions, analysis and lyrics that illustrate the complexities of this history. As it presents the findings of the authors' years of ethnographic work with the history's protagonists from senior motreb to pop rock stars the book reveals parallels between the decline of motrebi and the rise of modernity. In the twentieth century the fate of Tehran's motrebi music was shaped by the social and urban polarization that ensued from the modern market economy and losanjelesi would be similarly affected by transnational relations, revolution, war and migration. Through its detailed and informed examination of Iranian popular music this study reveals much about the values and anxieties of Iranian society and is a valuable resource for students and scholars of Iranian society and history.

Music and Song in Persia (RLE Iran B) Lloyd Miller, 2012-05-04. This book is the first full length analysis of the theory and practice of Persian singing demonstrating the centrality of Persian elements in the music of the Islamic Middle Ages, their relevance to both contemporary and traditional Iranian music and their interaction with classical Persian poetry and metrics.
