Rhetoric Of A Global Epidemic Transcultural Communication About Sars:

Rhetoric of a Global Epidemic Huiling Ding, 2014-04-17 2016 CCCC Best Book Award in Technical and Scientific Communication In the past ten years we have seen great changes in the ways government organizations and media respond to and report on emerging global epidemics The first outbreak to garner such attention was SARS severe acute respiratory syndrome In Rhetoric of a Global Epidemic Huiling Ding uses SARS to explore how various cultures and communities made sense of the epidemic and communicated about it She also investigates the way knowledge production and legitimation operate in global epidemics the roles that professionals and professional communicators as well as individual citizens play in the communication process points of contention within these processes and possible entry points for ethical and civic intervention Focusing on the rhetorical interactions among the World Health Organization the United States China and Canada Rhetoric of a Global Epidemic investigates official communication and community grassroots risk tactics employed during the SARS outbreak It consists of four historical cases which examine the transcultural risk communication about SARS in different geopolitical regions at different stages The first two cases deal with risk communication practices at the early stage of the SARS epidemic when it originated in southern China The last two cases move to transcultural rhetorical networks surrounding SARS With such threats as SARS avian flu and swine flu capturing the public imagination and prompting transnational public health preparedness efforts the need for a rhetoric of global epidemics has never been greater Government leaders public health officials health care professionals journalists and activists can learn how to more effectively craft and manage transcultural risk communication from Ding s examination of the complex and varied modes of communication around SARS In addition to offering a detailed case study Rhetoric of a Global Epidemic provides a critical methodology that professional communicators can use in their investigations of epidemics and details approaches to facilitating more open participatory risk communication at all levels

User Localization Strategies in the Face of Technological Breakdown Isidore Kafui Dorpenyo, 2019-08-20 This book examines Ghana s use of the fingerprint biometric technology in order to further conversations about localization championed by technical communication scholars Localization in this case refers to the extent to which users demonstrate their knowledge of use by subverting and reconfiguring the purpose of technology to solve local problems Dorpenyo argues that the success of a technology depends on how it meets the users needs and the creative efforts users put into use situations In User Localization Strategies in the Face of Technological Breakdown Dorpenyo advocates studying how users of technological systems construct knowledge about the technology and develop local strategies to solve technological breakdowns By analyzing technical documents and interview transcripts the author identifies and advances three user localization strategies linguistic localization subversive localization and user heuristic experience localization and considers how biometric systems can become a tool of marginalization

innovation and transformation as revealed through the emergence of new media genres New media have enabled what impresses most observers as a dizzying proliferation of new forms of communicative interaction and cultural production provoking multimodal experimentation and artistic and entrepreneurial innovation Working with the concept of genre scholars in multiple fields have begun to explore these processes of emergence innovation and stabilization Genre has thus become newly important in game studies library and information science film and media studies applied linguistics rhetoric literature and elsewhere Understood as social recognitions that embed histories ideologies and contradictions genres function as recurrent social actions helping to constitute culture Because genres are dynamic sites of tension between stability and change they are also sites of inventive potential Emerging Genres in New Media Environments brings together compelling papers from scholars in Brazil Canada England and the United States to illustrate how this inventive potential has been harnessed around the world in a pandemic Global Rhetorics of Science Lynda C. Olman,2023-09-01 With this volume the field of rhetoric of science joins its sister disciplines in history and philosophy in challenging the dominance of Euro American science as a global epistemology The discipline of rhetoric understands world making and community building as interdependent activities that is if we practice science differently we do politics differently and vice versa This wider aperture seems crucial at a time when we are confronted with the limitations of Euro American science and politics in managing global risks such as pandemics and climate change particularly in our most vulnerable communities The contributors to this volume draw on their familiarity with a wide range of global scientific traditions from Australian Aboriginal ecology to West African medicine to Polynesian navigation science to suggest possibilities for reconfiguring the relationship between science and politics to better manage global risks These possibilities should not only inspire scholars in rhetoric and technical communication but should also introduce readers from science and technology studies to some useful new approaches to the problem of decolonizing scenes of scientific practice around the world The Routledge Handbook of Ethics in Technical and Professional Communication Derek G. Ross,2025-03-06 Featuring specially commissioned chapters from scholars and practitioners across the field this handbook serves as a touchstone for those who wish to do ethical technical and professional communication in its myriad forms Offering an overview of what ethics in technical and professional communication looks like what being ethical entails and what it means to do ethical work this handbook is divided into five interrelated parts and an Afterword Why Ethics Foundations What Are Ethics and How Do They Fit into Technical and Professional Communication Local Application What Does Being Ethical Mean to the Individual Institutional Application What Does Being Ethical Mean at the Institutional Level The Future of Ethics in Technical Communication What Happens Next The first of its kind this accessibly written handbook explores descriptive normative applied and meta ethics It will be an indispensable resource for researchers and students in the fields of Technical and Professional Communication Writing Studies Rhetoric and Design
