Russo, Beatriz Ilari, Annabel J. Cohen, 2020-05-19 The Routledge Companion to Interdisciplinary Studies in Singing Volume I Development introduces the many voices necessary to better understand the act of singing a complex human behaviour that emerges without deliberate training Presenting research from the social sciences and humanities alongside that of the natural sciences and medicine alike this companion explores the relationship between hearing sensitivity and vocal production in turn identifying how singing is integrated with sensory and cognitive systems while investigating the ways we test and measure singing ability and development Contributors consider the development of singing within the context of the entire lifespan focusing on its cognitive social and emotional significance in four parts Musical historical and scientific foundations Perception and production Multimodality Assessment In 2009 the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada funded a seven year major collaborative research initiative known as Advancing Interdisciplinary Research in Singing AIRS Together global researchers from a broad range of disciplines addressed three challenging questions How does singing develop in every human being How should singing be taught and used to teach How does singing impact wellbeing Across three volumes The Routledge Companion to Interdisciplinary Studies in Singing consolidates the findings of each of these three questions defining the current state of theory and research in the field Volume I Development tackles the first of these three questions tracking development from infancy through childhood to adult years The Inner Voice in Gadamer's Hermeneutics Andrew Fuyarchuk, 2017-07-15 The inner word in Gadamer's hermeneutics refers to the meaning that exceeds anything explicitly said This explanation has been subsumed within metaphysical and theological parameters of interpretation with little regard for the implication of Gadamer's turn to the living language for understanding the inner word Through examining his phenomenology of the inner word The Inner Voice in Gadamer's Hermeneutics reveals its musical rhythmic and tonal dimensions and how they function to harmonize disparate orientations in the middle voice above all for Gadamer those that underlie modes of cognition in both the humanities and the sciences a visual and auditory ethos However understood as constituting the music of language discernible in the middle voice the inner word is also suppressed or forgotten by the technological extension of sight that is print and thus requires a turn of the inner ear or auditory disposition Andrew Fuyarchuk assesses theories of language in evolutionary and cognitive science in light of Gadamer's insights into the nature of thought and he employs them to account for a dimension of language that is inscribed in the lingual minds of our species. When recalled by the inner ear, this dimension enables us to think such opposites together as we find in the humanities and sciences together. This thinking together is expressed in a double account of an object of inquiry such as the one Fuyarchuk puts forward about the inner word in Gadamer's philosophical hermeneutics.

Intersubjective Minds Jonathan Delafield Butt, Vasudevi Reddy, 2025-01-12

Intersubjective Minds brings together world leaders in developmental psychology, biology, neuroscience, music, education, philosophy, and psychiatry to consolidate the lifetime work of Professor Emeritus Colwyn Trevarthen FRSE. Spanning research from the 1960s to the present, Trevarthen's contributions to science have changed our understanding of infancy, neuroscience, education, and musicality. The chapters included in this book, from these diverse fields, describe current issues, principles, and perspectives for advanced theory and working practice on the role of intersubjectivity in early human life, its contribution to health, education, and learning, and therefore its role in scientific understanding of the fundamentals of the human mind. By bringing together world-renowned scholars, scientists, medical, and educational practitioners, this book serves as a landmark for the field of intersubjectivity.

From Ecology to Brain Development: Bridging Separate Evolutionary Paradigms Francisco Aboitiz, Miguel L. Concha, Christian González-Billault, Jorge Mpodozis, 2018-09-14

The nervous system is the product of biological evolution and is shaped by the interplay between extrinsic factors determining the ecology of animals and by intrinsic processes that dictate the developmental rules that give rise to adult functional structures. This special topic is oriented to develop an integrative view from behavior and ecology to neurodevelopmental processes. We address questions such as: how do sensory systems evolve according to ecological conditions? How do neural networks organize to generate adaptive behavior? How does cognition and brain connectivity evolve? What are the developmental mechanisms that give rise to functional adaptation? Accordingly, the book is divided into three sections: i) Evolution of sensorimotor systems; ii) Cognitive computations and neural circuits; and iii) Development and brain evolution. We hope that this initiative will support an interdisciplinary program that addresses the nervous system as a unified organ, subject to both functional and developmental constraints, where the final outcome results of a compromise between different parameters rather than being the result of several single variables acting independently of each other.
