Riding The Whirlwind Chinese Edition:

The Making and Remaking of China's "Red Classics" Rosemary Roberts, Li Li, 2017-10-19 The Making and Remaking of China's Red Classics is the first full length work to bring together research on the red classics across the entire Maoist period through to the reform era. It covers a representative range of genres including novels, short stories, films, TV series, picture books, animation and traditional style paintings. Collectively the chapters offer a panoramic view of the production and reception of the original red classics and the adaptations and remakes of such works after the Cultural Revolution. The contributors present fascinating stories of how a work came to be regarded as or failed to become a red classic. There has never been a single answer to the question of what counts as a red classic; artists had to negotiate the changing political circumstances and adopt the correct artistic technique to bring out the authentic image of the people while appealing to the taste of the mass audience at the same time. A critical examination of these works reveals their sociopolitical and ideological import, aesthetic significance and function as a mass cultural phenomenon at particular historical moments. This volume marks a step forward in the growing field of the study of Maoist cultural products. The Making and Remaking of China's Red Classics analyzes the creation of literature in the Maoist era as well as the way in which the revolutionary canon was rediscovered and imagined during the reform period. This book is a timely and fascinating set of studies critically illuminating a foundational time during PRC history and its aftermath. Wendy Larson, professor emerita, University of Oregon. Creative works produced in the Mao era, 1942-1976, are often dismissed as mere propaganda. Despite the fact that they are artistic reflections of that remarkable period, scholars have generally ignored these red classics. This book throws much needed light on them. It is a must read for anyone wanting to understand the cultural scene in China. Kam Louie, honorary professor, University of Hong Kong and UNSW Australia. Taiping Guangji: A Collection of Ancient Novels in China; Volume of Gods, Ghosts and Spirits (Vol. 291 - 374) Li Fang, Taiping Guangji is the first collection of ancient classical Chinese documentary novels. The book is divided into 92 categories according to the theme and is divided into more than 150 details. The story of the gods and spirits in the book accounts for the largest proportion, such as the fifty-five volumes of the gods, the fifteen volumes of the female fairy, the twenty-five volumes of the gods, the forty volumes of the ghosts, plus the Taoism, the alchemist, the aliens, the dissidents, the interpretation and Spirit, vegetation of birds, and so on. Teaching Innovation and Entrepreneurship Charles Hampden-Turner,2009-10-29 Is it possible to teach someone to be an entrepreneur Is innovation something that can be assessed and taught in a classroom Teaching Innovation and Entrepreneurship answers these and other questions by focusing on a teaching experiment in Singapore at Nanyang Technological University wherein classes of English speaking Singaporeans and Mandarin speaking students from the People s Republic of China were subjected to an entrepreneurial eco system Extending from the west coast of the USA to Singapore and Shanghai this programme subjects students to a wide range of activities including a four month business simulation game where teams of students select their favourite inventions and pitch them to real venture capitalists with the inventors present Drawing on the lessons learned from this highly successful experiment the book argues that not only is it possible to describe the innovative process we can also teach it measure it evaluate it and model it
