Blume, Assistant Professor of Political Science Laura R Blume, 2025-12-15 How and why do drug traffickers adapt their operational strategies based on political and community dynamics and in turn how do these different narco strategies impact violence To address these questions this book draws on several years of immersive ethnographic fieldwork in drug trafficking hotspots along the Caribbean coast of Honduras Nicaragua and Costa Rica In addition to extensive use of participant observation methods the author has conducted 300 informal interviews more than 75 of which were with participants in the illegal narcotics trade ranging from local marijuana and crack dealers to international cocaine traffickers The book presents a theory of how corruption and political competition determine traffickers' main strategies collusion cooptation or evasion as well as how traffickers may cultivate local community support especially in their native communities It then elaborates on how these various narco strategies and differences in community support influence traffickers' use of violence The author illustrates with ethnographic evidence as well as original datasets on massacres and violence against public figures how cooptation strategies in Honduras and evasion strategies in Costa Rica both increase the risk of violence especially when there is zero sum criminal competition yet with significant differences in terms of the targets of violence under evasion versus cooptation strategies In contrast collusion strategies in Nicaragua eliminate most trafficking related violence yet the same authoritarian system that de facto manages the drug trade and reduces narco violence contributes to violent political repression in Nicaragua Ultimately The Art of Trafficking is a powerful condemnation of the U S led War on Drugs and makes a strong case for urgent policy changes both in the U S as well as in Central America
