Electricity and Magnetism in Biology and Medicine Ferdinando Bersani, 2012-12-06 In the last few decades the research on bioelectromagnetics has expanded worldwide About one thousand researchers are now working in the field in a variety of institutions throughout the world including medical biological engineering and technical laboratories and protection agencies After many years of research a clear picture is now emerging Initially the research was mainly interested in the therapeutic applications of ELF electric and magnetic fields and the RF range was mainly taken into consideration with respect to thermal effects only. Then the growing body of biological effects of ELF fields on cells and biological tissues, particularly for the repair processes in bone, have drawn the attention of researchers to non thermal effects ranging from static fields to microwaves. A specific field of interest that has been the object of a large debate in the last twenty years has been the potential health risk associated with electric power production and distribution and more recently with domestic and industrial appliances. In the last few years the explosion of the market for cellularphones has highlighted the issue of possible health dangers related to their use and to the widespread presence of base stations. The first World Congress on Electricity and Magnetism in Biology and Medicine was held in Orlando, Florida, in 1992 and collected the widest amount of contributions from almost all the major researchers involved in the field.

Atlas of CT Pathology Deborah L. Durham, 1997. Comprehensive and up to date, this atlas provides CT images of common and unusual pathologies. The atlas is divided into chapters of anatomical regions according to the ARRT CT registry exam. Contains authentic images from actual patients rather than perfect examples to better prepare the reader for real life situations. All illustrations are accompanied by charts that present information on pathology, symptoms and patient history.
