September Hope The American Side Of A Bridge Too Far:

The Faces of Margraten Stichting Fields of Honor, 2025-10-01 In the rolling hills of the Limburg Province near the village of Margraten they slowly loom up row after row thousands of white marble crosses and Stars of David They mark the final resting place of American soldiers who died fighting to liberate the Netherlands during World War II While the headstones provide the names and ages of those lost they cannot tell us who these soldiers were what their lives were like or who they left behind Nor can the peace and quiet at the only American military cemetery in the Netherlands reflect the harrowing experience and violent final moments of the men and women who forever rest here Through hundreds of personal photographs and more than 250 stories The Faces of Margraten gives these soldiers faces and voices again telling not only the history of World War II and the ending of the German occupation of the Netherlands but also revealing how and why the Dutch people have never forgotten their liberators Concluding with a list of all the soldiers names this commemorative book stands as a testament to the service and sacrifice of the more than 10 000 Americans buried or memorialized as missing in Margraten

Zaloga,2014-08-20 Overshadowed by the dramatic British failure at Arnhem the US 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions were a vital component of Operation Market Garden and succeeded in capturing their objectives at Eindhoven and Nijmegen In the summer of 1944 plans began for a complex operation to seize a Rhine river bridge at Arnhem in the Netherlands The American portion of the airborne mission was to employ two divisions of the US XVIII Airborne Corps to seize key terrain features that otherwise might delay the advance of British tanks towards the bridge. The 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions succeeded in their tasks of capturing the vital bridges at Eindhoven at Nijmegen in the face of fierce German resistance. However the delays caused to the British armored advance combined with stronger than expected fighting at Arnhem led to the withdrawal of the remnants of the British 1st Airborne Division in one of the Western Allies most costly defeats of World War II. Contemporary photographs, maps and detailed color artwork complement extensive archival research that reveals the successes of those American airborne missions largely overshadowed by the failure of the operation as a whole. Armor, 2013 September Hope

John C. McManus, 2012-06-05. Acclaimed historian John C. McManus, author of The Dead and Those About to Die, explores World War II's most ambitious invasion, Operation Market Garden, an immense daring offensive to defeat Nazi Germany before the end of 1944. A riveting and deeply moving story of uncommon courage, Alex Kershaw, New York Times bestselling author of The First Wave, August 1944 saw the Allies achieve more significant victories than in any other month over the course of the war. The Germans were in disarray, overwhelmed on all fronts. Rumors swirled that the war would soon be over. On September 17, the largest airborne drop in military history commenced over Holland, including two entire American divisions, the 101st and the 82nd. Their mission was to secure key bridges at such places as Son Eindhoven, Grave, and Nijmegen until British armored forces could relieve them. The Germans, however, proved much stronger than the Allies anticipated. In eight days of ferocious combat, they mauled the airborne, stymied the tanks, and prevented the Allies from crossing the Rhine. September Hope conveys the American perspective like never before through a vast array of new sources and countless personal interviews to create a truly revealing portrait of this searing human drama.
