The Oxford Handbook of American Literary Naturalism Keith Newlin, 2011-05-26. After its heyday in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century, naturalism—a genre that typically depicts human beings as the product of biological and environmental forces over which they have little control—was supplanted by modernism, a genre in which writers experimented with innovations in form and content. In the last decade, the movement is again attracting spirited scholarly debate. The Oxford Handbook of American Literary Naturalism takes stock of the best new research in the field through collecting twenty-eight original essays drawing upon recent scholarship in literary and cultural studies. The contributors offer an authoritative and in-depth reassessment of writers from Stephen Crane, Frank Norris, Theodore Dreiser, and Jack London to Kate Chopin, Edith Wharton, Ernest Hemingway, Richard Wright, John Steinbeck, Joyce Carol Oates, and Cormac McCarthy. One set of essays focuses on the genre itself, exploring the historical contexts that gave birth to it, the problem of definition, its interconnections with other genres, the scientific and philosophical ideas that motivate naturalist authors, and the continuing presence of naturalism in twenty-first-century fiction. Others examine the tensions within the genre, the role of women and African American writers, depictions of sexuality, the problem of race, and the critique of commodity culture and class. A final set of essays looks beyond the works to consider the role of the marketplace in the development of naturalism, the popular and critical response to the works, and the influence of naturalism in the other arts.

Nobel Writers on Writing Ottar G. Draugsvold, 2000. When in 1901 Alfred Nobel bequeathed to the world the funds to support the Nobel Prize, one of his few directives for the category of literature was that the artists selected be of idealistic tendency. Since its inception, the prize has given a very public voice to some of the world's greatest writers and their responses to the honor; their acceptance speeches have themselves often been epochal within each author's body of literature. From the famed call to arms by William Faulkner to the multicultural song of Derek Walcott from 1903's Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson to 1999's Günter Grass, this collection traces the ideals of the artists and the selection committee itself throughout the entirety of the 20th century. Interestingly, writes Draugsvold, none of the writers discuss the more technical aspects of their craft Equally striking is the strength of the common thread of idealism found in these addresses a firm belief in humankind and the power of art in its role in the service of truth and the service of liberty as Albert Camus said in 1957 I decline to accept the end of man wrote the Old Man William Faulkner The speeches presented here were chosen not by subjective but rather by substantive criteria with biographical presentations and brief statements of gratitude omitted Included are an introduction to each of the 28 writers chosen an excerpted copy of the speech or lecture and a bibliography of works in English The work concludes with a complete list of prize winners in literature and a bibliography of sources cited in the writer s introductions
