life of the nation It is a new kind of gardening history Beginning with the Restoration of Charles II in 1660 Roderick Floud describes the role of the monarchy and central and local government in creating gardens as well as that of the generally aristocratic or plutocratic builders of the great gardens of Stuart Georgian and Victorian England He considers the designers of these gardens as both artists and businessmen often earning enormous sums by modern standards matched by the nurserymen and plant collectors who supplied their plants He uncovers the lives and rewards of working gardeners the domestic gardens that came with the growth of suburbs and the impact of gardening on technical developments from man made lakes to central heating AN ECONOMIC HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH GARDEN shows the extraordinary commitment of money as well as time that the English have made to gardens and gardening over three and a half centuries It reveals the connections of our gardens to the re establishment of the English monarchy the national debt transport during the Industrial Revolution the new industries of steam glass and iron and the built environment that is now all around us It is a fresh perspective on the history of England and will open the eyes of gardeners and garden visitors to an unexpected dimension of what they do

The Victorian Gardener Caroline Ikin, 2014-02-10 Over the course of the nineteenth century gardening came to be considered a respectable profession providing a means to an education a good chance of advancement and decent working conditions The hierarchy of the garden staff became just as regimented as that of domestic servants and progression was attained by hard work self improvement and ambition Training courses and apprenticeships prepared young gardeners for their trade and horticulture became recognised as a skilled profession with the head gardener commanding a position of influence and respect and women overcoming social barriers to join their peers on equal terms This book explores the gardening profession within the complexities of Victorian society and the advances in science and technology that pushed the gardener further into the limelight
