Muses And Measures Empirical Research Methods For The Humanities:

Muses and Measures Willie van Peer, Frank Hakemulder, Jèmeljan Hakemulder, Sonia Zyngier, 2007 This is a textbook that has been needed for decades It should be required reading for every student and professor in literary studies and for that matter in any humanistic discipline Humanistic methods of inquiry certainly have their place but all too often humanistic scholars present entire theories and have no idea how to test them or even realize that they should be tested in a scientific manner Such scholars can only try to convince readers that they are right It is absurd to use rhetoric when there are perfectly good empirical methods of testing such theories If they are not so tested they are quite likely to lead us astray In a very engaging way the authors almost seduce readers into wanting to learn about empirical methods and statistics The book is full of suggested projects for students Students are led through how to search sources such as PsycInfo in order to get ideas and then gradually introduced to basic statistics and shown in detail how to analyze data that they themselves may have gathered By focusing on practical matters and not bothering much with formulas that will soon be forgotten readers are given a good intuitive grasp of not just simple statistics but also statistics at an intermediate level Muses and Measures

Research Jana Pflaeging, Janina Wildfeuer, John A. Bateman, 2021-11-08 This volume advances the data based study of multimodal artefacts and performances by showcasing methods and results from the latest endeavors in empirical multimodal research representing a vibrant international and interdisciplinary research community The collated chapters identify and seek to inspire novel mixed method approaches to investigate meaning making mechanisms in current communicative artifacts designs and contexts while attending to their immersive aesthetic and ideological dimensions Each contribution details innovative aspects of empirical multimodality research offering insights into challenges evolving from quantitative approaches particular corpus work results from eye tracking and psychological experiments and analyses of dynamic interactive experiences The approaches and results presented foreground the inherent multidisciplinary nature and implications of multimodality renegotiating concepts across linguistics media studies social semiotics game studies and design With this the volume will inform both current and future developments in theory methods and transdisciplinary contexts and become a landmark reference for anyone interested in the empirical study of multimodality Arts and Humanities in Progress Dario Martinelli, 2016-10-13 The book aims to introduce a research concept called Numanities as one possible attempt to overcome the current scientific social and institutional crisis of the humanities Such crisis involves their impact on and role within society their popularity among students and scholars and their identity as producers and promoters of knowledge The modern western world and its economic policies have been identified as the strongest cause of such a crisis Creating the conditions for but in fact encouraging it However a self critical assessment of the situation is called for Our primary fault as humanists was that of stubbornly thinking that the world s changes could never really affect us as we felt our identity was sacred In the light of these approaches the main strengths of humanities have been identified in the ability to promote critical thinking and analytical reasoning provide knowledge and understanding of democracy and social justice develop leadership cultural and ethical values The main problems of humanities are the lack economic relevance the socio institutional perception of them as impractical and unemployable the fact that they do not match with technological development Finally the resulting crisis consists mainly in the absence or radical reduction of funding from institutions a decrease in student numbers a decrease in interest a loss of centrality in society A Numanities New Humanities project should consider all these aspects with self critical assessment on the first line The goal is to unify the various fields approaches and also potentials of the humanities in the context dynamics and problems of current societies and in an attempt to overcome the above described crisis Numanities are introduced not as a theoretical paradigm but in terms of an umbrella concept that has no specific scientific content in it that particularly means that the many existing new fields and research trends that are addressing the same problems post humanism transhumanism transformational humanities etc are not competitors of Numanities but rather possible ways to them Therefore more than a theoretical program Numanities intend to pursue a mission and that is summarized in a seven point manifesto In the light of these premises and reflections the book then proceeds to identify the areas of inquiry that Humanities in their functions and comprehensive approach seek to cover. The following list should also be understood as a statement of purposes for this entire book series. These in other words will be the topics/areas we intend to represent. Once elaborated on the foundations of Humanities, the book features a second part that presents two case studies based on two relatively recent and now updated investigations that the author has performed in the fields of musical and animal studies respectively. The two cases and relative areas of inquiry were selected because they were considered particularly relevant within the discussion of Humanities and in two different ways. In the first case study, the author discussed the most typical result or perhaps cause of the technophobic attitude that was addressed in the first part of the book: the issue of authenticity as applied in the author's particular study to popular music. In the second case study, he analyzes two different forms of comparative analysis between human and non-human cognition like in the former case, this study too is aimed at a critical commentary on what the author considers redundant biases in current humanistic research: anthropocentrism and speciesism.

Directions in Empirical Literary Studies Sonia Zyngier, Marisa Bortolussi, Anna Chesnokova, Jan Auracher, 2008-05-15. Directions in Empirical Literary Studies is on the cutting edge of empirical studies and is a much needed volume. It both widens the scope of empirical studies and looks at them from an intercultural perspective by bringing together renowned scholars from the fields of philosophy, sociology, psychology, linguistics, and literature, all focusing on how empirical studies have impacted these different areas. Theoretical issues are discussed and solid methods are presented. Some chapters also show the relation between empirical studies and new technology, examining developments in computer science and corpus linguistics. This book takes a global perspective with contributors from many different countries, both senior and junior researchers. Broad in scope and interdisciplinary in nature, it contributes with the state-of-the-art developments in the field.

Contemporary Stylistics Alison Gibbons, 2018-02-01. Contemporary Stylistics introduces the theoretical principles and practical frameworks of stylistics and cognitive poetics, supplying the practical skills to analyse your own responses to literary texts.
