Being Gay in Ireland Gerard Rodgers,2018-06-20 In Being Gay in Ireland Resisting Stigma in the Evolving Present Gerard Rodgers argues that existing theory and research on the lives of gay men often exhibits a social weightlessness such that self beliefs are frequently decoupled from an analysis of society History and conventions inform and shape gay men s self beliefs yet psychology as a discipline rarely dialogues with historical or political scholarship Rodgers corrects this oversight with a critical analysis of the decades of socio political struggle in Ireland and elsewhere Rodgers captures the lives of gay men who are situated in varied contexts and who all despite their different situations possess self beliefs that are shaped by wider historical traditions and evolving social change Rodgers argues that the nuances and particulars of self beliefs are significantly affected by wider historical traditions and evolving social and political changes Through his reconstruction Rodgers provides practitioners of applied psychological and therapeutic disciplines with an in depth picture of how historical context and social justice successes have interacted with gay men s self beliefs with a particular focus on how prosocial resistances against prejudice have incrementally eroded historical standards of gay stigma

Heidegger and the Lived Experience of Being a University Educator Joshua Spier,2018-02-09 This book explores the lived meanings of being a university educator from an existential perspective The book enriches our understanding of educators experiences in light of Martin Heidegger s early philosophy and vice versa opening our understanding of Heidegger s philosophy through educators experiences Also drawing on the philosophical insights of Hans Georg Gadamer the book situates the purposes and experiences of the educator in historical and contemporary contexts In doing so the author reveals that being a university educator is essentially characterised by conversation and time Inspired by the author s own experiences of teaching community development and sociology within a youth work specific bachelor degree the book invites educators to apply existential philosophy as a tool to reflect upon their own experiences and to reconnect with the question of what it means to be an educator in their shared world of practice This thoughtful volume is sure to resonate with the experiences of readers who educate within a university context The Maternal Tug: Ambivalence, Identity, and Agency Adams Sarah LaChance, 2020-02-01 While the existence of maternal ambivalence has been evident for centuries it has only recently been recognized as central to the lived experience of mothering This accessible yet intellectually rigorous interdisciplinary collection demonstrates its presence and meaning in relation to numerous topics such as pregnancy birth Caesarean sections sleep self estrangement helicopter parenting poverty environmental degradation depression anxiety queer mothering disability neglect filicide and war rape Its authors deny the assumption that mothers who experience ambivalence are bad evil unnatural or insane Moreover historical records and cross cultural narratives indicate that maternal ambivalence appears in a wide range of circumstances but that it becomes unmanageable in circumstances of inequity deprivation and violence From this premise the authors in this collection raise imperative ethical social and political questions suggesting possibilities for vital cultural transformations These candid explorations demand we rethink our basic assumptions about how mothering is experienced in everyday life Qualitative Research Approaches for Psychotherapy Keith Tudor, Jonathan Wyatt, 2023-07-03 Qualitative Research Approaches for Psychotherapy offers the reader a range of current qualitative research approaches congruent with the values and practices of psychotherapy itself experience based reflective contextualized and critical This volume contains 14 compelling challenging new essays from authors in both the Northern and Southern hemispheres writing from a range of theoretical and cultural perspectives The book covers both established and emerging approaches to qualitative research in this field beginning with case study ending with postqualitative and with hermeneutic reflexive psychosocial Talanoa queer feminist critical race theory heuristic grounded theory autoethnographic poetic and collaborative writing approaches in between These chapters introduce and explore the complexity of the specific research approach its assumptions challenges ethics and potentials including examples from the authors own research therapeutic practice and life The book is not a how to guide to methods but rather a stimulus for psychotherapy researchers to think and feel their way differently into their research endeavours This book will be an invaluable resource to postgraduate students practitioners and established researchers in psychotherapy who are undertaking or considering qualitative research for their projects It will also appeal to course tutors and trainers looking for a volume around which to structure a qualitative research methods course
