Mad in Translation Robin D. Gill, 2009 Even readers with no particular interest in Japan if such odd souls exist may expect unexpected pleasure from this book if English metaphysical poetry grooks hyperlogical nonsense verse outrageous epigrams the im possibilities and process of translation between exotic tongues the reason of puns and rhyme outlandish metaphor extreme hyperbole and whatnot tickle their fancy Read together with The Woman Without a Hole also by Robin D Gill the hitherto overlooked ulterior side of art poetry in Japan may now be thoroughly explored by monolinguals though bilinguals and students of Japanese will be happy to know all the original Japanese is included amazon com

The Making of Shinkokinshū Robert N. Huey, 2020-03-23 This study of the Japanese imperial court in the early thirteenth century focuses on the compilation of one of Japan s most important poetry collections Shinkokinsh Using personal diaries court records poetry texts and literary treatises Robert N Huey reconstructs the process by which Retired Emperor Go Toba brought together contending factions to produce this collection and laid the groundwork for his later attempt at imperial restoration The work analyzes how poetic discourse of the imperial court animated both other kinds of writing and other activities Finally it underscores the inextricable ties between the writing of poetry and court politics Shinkokinsh the New Kokinshu has been viewed as a neo classical effort Reading history backward scholars have often taken the work to be the outgrowth of a nostalgia for greatness presumed to have been lost in the wars of the origins of the collection The author argues that the compilers of Shinkokinsh instead saw it as a new beginning a revitalization and affirmation of courtly traditions and not a reaction to loss It is a dynamic collection full of innovative challenging poetry not an elegy for a lost age

A Catalog of Such Stuff as Dreams Are Made On Kai-cheung Dung, 2022-06-21 Dung Kai cheung s A Catalog of Such Stuff as Dreams Are Made On is a playful and imaginative glimpse into the consumerist dreamscape of late nineties Hong Kong First published in 1999 it comprises ninety nine sketches of life just after the handover of the former British colony to China Each of these stories in miniature begins from a piece of ephemera usually consumer products or pop culture phenomena and develops alternately comic and poignant snapshots of urban life Dung s sketches center on once trendy items that evoke the world at the turn of the millennium such as Hello Kitty Final Fantasy VIII a Windows 98 disk a clamshell mobile phone Air Jordans and cargo shorts The protagonist of each piece typically a young woman is struck by an odd even overriding obsession with an object or fad Characters embark on brief dalliances or relationships lasting no longer than the fashions that sparked them Dung blends vivid everyday details Portuguese egg tarts Japanese TV shows the Hong Kong subway with situations that are often fantastical or preposterous This catalog of vanished products illuminates how people use objects to define and even invent their own selves A major work from one of Hong Kong's most gifted and original writers Dung's archaeology of the end of the twentieth century speaks to perennial questions about consumerism nostalgia and identity

Objects of Discourse John R. Wallace, 2005 Wallace analyzes the four main 10th and 11th century Heian memoirs by women for their individual characteristics and what they suggest of Heian literature more broadly He treats the memoirists not as passive objects of men's romantic play but rather as individuals who strategically confront their difficult life situations in part by writing about their experiences Wallace further finds in the memoirs a rich resource for understanding rhetorical and structural features of Japan's high classical period literary prose After taking up historical issues such as the newly developed vernacular scripts and pre texts of the memoirs Wallace probes Gossamer Years Lady Izumi's Story Lady Murasaki's Journal and The Sarashina Memoir for their stylistic aspects rhetorical devices Foucault's networks of power and narrative structure respectively The result is a fascinating study of Heian women writers
