	to-self (personal) and best-to-world (world around him) connections and engaging in role play (he/she) now uses movements, music, and chants when expressing (his/her) feelings about a story or a personal experience to (his/her) classmates. (Name) has progressed from making choices about where (he/she) will play to purposefully planning (his/her) activities, making predictions, elaborating on (his/her) plans, and reflecting on the outcomes. Over the term, teachers worked with him to develop strategies to communicate and identify (his/her) feelings of hunger, emotion, or conflict. During center time, (he/she) creates games for the other students that require active participation. I am celebrating the improvement in (his/her) ability to manage (his/her) emotions and take responsibility for (his/her) actions. (Name) understands that a variety of interests are reflected within the learning environment and appreciates the diversity and culturally rich experiences to which (he/she) is exposed. Doing during gym class is helping with (his/her) balance and flexibility in movement.
Level 3	At the start of the term, (name) enjoyed playing with one other student in the dramatic play center but is now participating more freely in other centers and regularly talks to new friends. (he/she) uses colour and texture in (his/her) artwork to express (his/her) feelings about a personal experience or event. To improve (his/her) spatial awareness in activities that require small muscles, (he/she) I am introducing play with small objects. Through hard work and dedication, (Name) continues to practice (his/her) writing and drawing daily in order to build and develop (his/her) small muscles. Since the beginning of the term, (he/she) had learned to choose a balance of active and quiet activities throughout the day, listening to the cues that (his/her) body gives him. I have noticed that (he/she) can now better identify (his/her) feelings related to issues or conflicts. At the beginning of school, (Name) was developing peer relationships and learning how to talk and interact with others. Now (he/she) is demonstrating pro-social behaviours such as cooperation, empathy, responsibility and self-control. At the beginning of school, (he/she) required support and coaching from the teacher to approach groups of children. Now that (Name) has had the opportunity to explore the learning environment and develop friendships, (he/she) is able to initiate conversations with (his/her) peers and request to join in activities.
Level 3	At the beginning of school, (Name) was learning to cope with changes and managing difficult emotions. Now, with support from (his/her) teachers, (he/she) understands what it feels like to be calm. (he/she) is beginning to recognize stressors that interfere with (his/her) ability to be alert and focused. (Name) independently utilizes strategies such as telling an adult, practicing deep breathing, and listening to classical music to recover and calm down. (he/she) now uses movements, music, and chants when expressing (his/her) feelings about a story or a personal experience to (his/her) classmates. (he/she) enjoys outdoor building in the sand area and

The "New" Epidemic- Grading Practices Andre' Mathews, 2016-03-16 This book is a comprehensive view on the grading practices and policies in American public schools The content of the book identifies the lack of alignment amongst the Federal State and Local Districts and the need to adopt a unified policy Educational institutions are creating their own versions of grading systems that lack integrity flawed in design hinder many students from graduating and or achieving opportunities to become a more productive citizen after high school completion

Section I The structure of the book begins with a systemic view of development by identifying the philosophical and theoretical aspects involved in the grading system

Section II The authors work then transitions to the structure of the grading system addressing the mathematical aspects of calculating a students grade point average to the teachers validity of grades

Section III This section identifies the parents role and need to understand the grade itself and its effect on the students overall outcome and class ranking

Section IV The book ends with a strong analysis of the system parental rights examples of educational disasters and schools quest for new grading systems

All in all this book takes a journey throughout the entire educational system identifying a need for change on all levels as it relates to the grading system

The overall message emphasizes the parents need to be cognizant of the importance of being involved and properly motivating mentoring monitoring modeling and managing their childs educational careers

All stakeholders should walk away with a sense of ownership to the problem and an understanding that the time for change is now

The ethnic margin is widening and too many students are graduating unmarketable
