Producing And Negotiating Non Citizenship Precarious Legal Status In Canada:

Theorising Noncitizenship Katherine Tonkiss, Tendayi Bloom, 2018-09-03 Noncitizenship if it is considered at all is generally seen only as the negation or deprivation of citizenship. It is rarely examined in its own right, whether in relation to States, to noncitizens or citizens. This means that it is difficult to examine successfully the status of noncitizens' obligations towards them and the nature of their role in political systems. As a result, not only are there theoretical black holes but also the real world difficulties created as a result of noncitizenship are not currently successfully addressed. In response, Theorising Noncitizenship seeks to define the theoretical challenge that noncitizenship presents and to consider why it should be seen as a foundational concept in social science. The contributions from leading scholars in the field and across disciplinary backgrounds capture a diversity of perspectives on the meaning, position and lived experience of noncitizenship. They demonstrate that we need to look beyond citizenship in order to take noncitizenship seriously and to capture fully the lived realities of the contemporary State system. This book was previously published as a special issue of Citizenship Studies.

Liberating Temporariness? Leah F. Vosko, Valerie Preston, Robert Latham, 2014-06-01 Liberating Temporariness explores the complex ways in which temporariness is being institutionalized as a condition of life for a growing number of people worldwide. The collection emphasizes contemporary developments but also provides historical context on nation state membership as the fundamental means for accessing rights in an era of expanding temporariness in recognition of why pathways to permanence remain so compelling. Through empirical and theoretical analysis, contributors explore various dimensions of temporariness, especially as it relates to the legal status of migrants and refugees, to the spread of precarious employment and to limitations on social rights. While the focus is on Canada, a number of chapters investigate and contrast developments in Canada with those in Europe as well as Australia and the United States. Together, these essays reveal changing and enduring temporariness at local, regional, national, transnational and global levels and in different domains such as health care, language programs and security. The question at the heart of this collection is whether temporariness can be liberated from current constraints. While not denying the desirability of permanence for migrants and labourers, Liberating Temporariness presents alternative possibilities of security and liberation.

Producing and Negotiating Non-Citizenship Luin Goldring, Patricia Landolt, 2013-03-07 Most examinations of non citizens in Canada focus on immigrants, people who are citizens in waiting or specific categories of temporary vulnerable workers. In contrast, Producing and Negotiating Non Citizenship considers a range of people whose pathway to citizenship is uncertain or non-existent. This includes migrant workers, students, refugee claimants and people with expired permits, all of whom have limited formal rights to employment, housing, education and health services. The contributors to this volume present theoretically informed empirical studies of the regulatory, institutional, discursive and practical terms under which precarious status non citizens, those without permanent residence, enter and remain in Canada. They consider the historical and contemporary production of non citizen precarious status and migrant illegality in Canada as well as everyday experiences of precarious status among various social groups including youth denied refugee claimants and agricultural workers This timely volume contributes to conceptualizing multiple forms of precarious status non citizenship as connected through policy and the practices of migrants and the institutional actors they encounter Urban Migrant Inclusion and Refugee Protection - Volume 2 Harald Bauder,Mary Boatemaa Setrana,2025-08-01 This open access book offers the first comprehensive global overview of urban and local initiatives policies and practices towards including and protecting migrants in vulnerable situations and refugees The chapters in this volume illustrate the various urban solidarity practices in different world regions while highlighting important differences arising from geographical political geopolitical economic and demographic contexts The volume contains a mix of chapters that present comprehensive and state of the art literature reviews and the results of empirical case studies that offer original regional perspectives of migrant and refugee inclusion and exclusion and the policies politics and rights of urban solidarity Migrant Citizenship from Below K.
